Making a Splash

A Reflection

Water,
When I gaze upon your surface
You peer back up,
Surprised,
For I reflect you.
Like you,
I bend and change with my surroundings.
The environment determines my shape.
But now,
The container that holds me
Is opening.
And soon the current within me
Will rush me out
To a new identity.
Like you,
I am ready.
Ready to sink in
And feel the earth.
Ready to flow out
And join the ocean.
Ready to rain down
Upon the world,
Bringing her life, health, and strength,
And making her glisten,
As light reflects me.

-Emily Reynolds

Mr. Lebel got doused with water after the senior girls proved victorious over the juniors at the 2003 Powder Puff game.

Lauren McHugh and Kim Rice got acquainted with a friendly dolphin while on a three week trip to Australia during the summer of 2003.

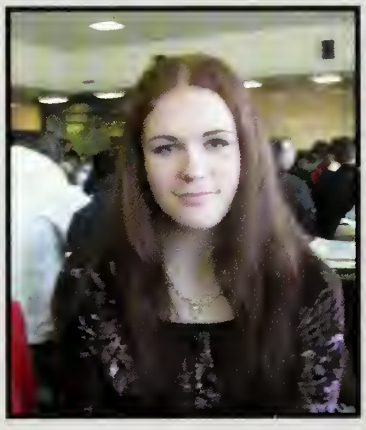
Dan Hopkins, Caity Kenealy, Andrew Baxter, Mark Pare, Ben Jablonski and Mr. Floeck dressed up as characters from the movie the Wave .

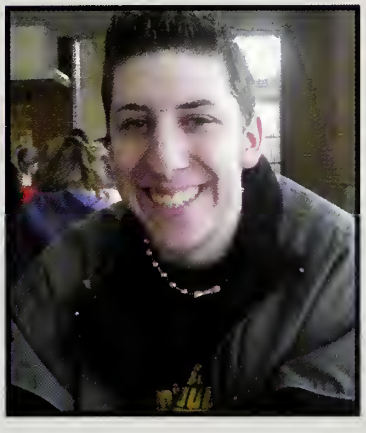
What would you say was the biggest splash of all this year's class of 2004?

Courtney Ryan: "I'd say, the Seniors being undefeated in the Powder Puff game."

Reflecting back on this past year, what was the funniest thing that has happened to you?

Samantha McKenna: "I fell down flat on my face in the hall and everyone was laughing at me; it was so embarassing."





What has been the biggest puddle you had to jump over this year?

Sean Leary: "Making a portfolio for college; it has really taken up a lot of my time!"

What dissapointment this year have you encountered which felt like it was raining on your parade?

Lauren Spivack: "When they cancelled the Homecoming dance; I was really looking forward to it!"

"OLD SCHOOL"

Preparing to say goodbye to the "old" Whitman-Hanson High School

Above: To add light and beauty to the once dark and dingy halls of the gourmet gallery, students were allowed to paint murals on the walls. Pictured above is a mural of a French Cafe, and was painted by a group of students in Mrs. Maher's Art Workshop class. Senior Meagan Warsheski, one of the artists, said, "It's not the best feeling to know that all of your hard work and time spent on a project is going to disapear once the school is leveled out," (laughter) "but it was fun while it lasted." This mural, along with all the others, is definately a part of this school that will be missed.

Below: One thing that students won't miss about this school is the crowded hallways. Senior Ashley Burke comments, "It's hard to get to class on time because the hallways are so small that when people stop to get to their lockers, it causes a backup for students traveling behind them."

Q: What aren't you going to miss about this school?

"I hate how the heaters pump out cold air in the winter and hot air in the summer, so that's something I definately won't miss."- Caleb Fall, Sophomore

"I won't miss the dilapidated science equipment and the birds nest in my fumehood."-Mr. Rozen, Science Department

"I am not going to miss the snow blowing through the windows in the portables during the winter."-Mr. Fleok, Dean

"I won't miss the heaters breaking in Febuary so that it got to the point people wanted to wear their bathing suits."-Mr Lynn, History Department

Reflecting on the Past

With only two years until the new school is completed, everyone looks back on their time spent here.

With the construction for the new school already in progress, students and teachers can't help but look back and reflect on their years spent here at Whitman Hanson. The one thing that no one will forget are the portables. To give a short history, the portables were put up in the early seventies and were meant to be temporary to solve the space problem. Now, almost fourty years later they are still in use, but not in good shape. The heating system never works properly. "Its either too hot or too cold, they can never get it quite right," Mr. Fleok adds when asked what he is not going to miss about this school. Also, the portables home many small animals such as mice and voles. Mary Outerbridge reflects back to junior year stating, "I remember when I was in US History with Kavka and a critter scurried across the room during class. It was an ongoing joke the rest of the term."

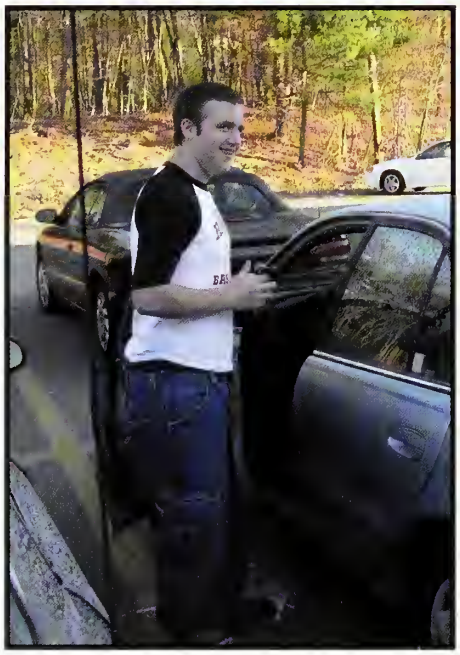
This past year has been a year of much change and confusion. The students and faculty were introduced to a new safety precaution known as 'the lock down'. This was performed to make sure all students and faculty would be safe in case of an crisis. Another element to this year that added to the confusion was the bells. Towards the beginning of the year, the bells were not working properly and eventually stopped working all together. With no bells, students had to wait to be dismissed from class until they were told to by the faculty. Eventually the bells were fixed, but they sound like more of a tone then a bell. "The tones were alright at first, but now they are really annoying," comments junior Adrienne Cochrane. Another problem brought on by the tones is that they are beginning to not work properly. Senior Kendra Cheney says, "The tones are confusing because they go off every five minutes, so you never really know what time class begins or ends."

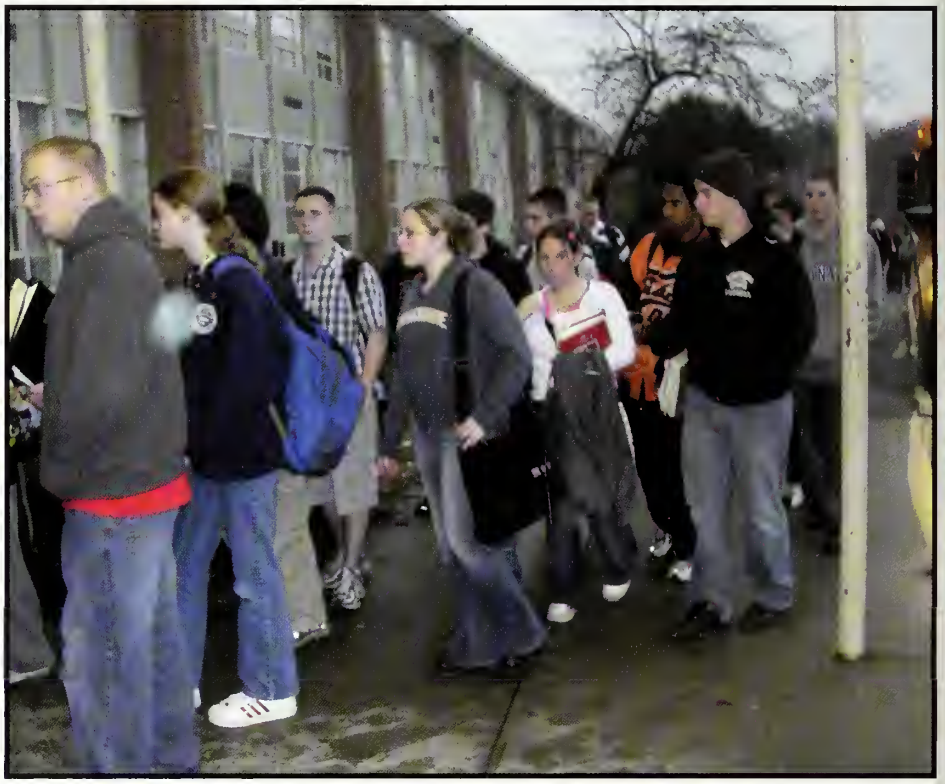
Although this school will be missed, the students and faculty are ready to say goodbye to the old Whitman Hanson and ready to welcome in the new school.

Making an Entrance

Taking the bus, walking, or driving; students arrive to school

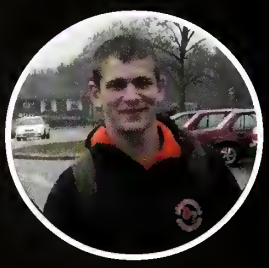
To the right, students stroll into school after getting off the school bus.





Above, Andrew Forbes rushes into the parking lot hoping he won't be marked tardy. When asked why he was late, Andrew quickly remarked, "My alarm didn't go off!"(As many of us can relate).

Rise and Shine: Most agree its a little too bright and early...



John Burnett

As one of the last arrivers, John Burnett casually strolls into school knowing he is late. Of course, this being his first tardy, John has nothing to worry about. "Maybe if I didn't stop at Dunkin Donuts, I would have been on time!" John remarks.

Leah Cavacco and Allison Conover

Best friends Leah Cavacco and Allison Conover are early as always. When asked how long it took each of them to get ready for school, Leah replied "Oh, about an hour," while Allison said, "Only 15 minutes."

Jillian Hayes

It's the beginning of yet another day of school, And Jillian waits in the parking lot for a friend. Wishing she were still at home in her bed, she remarks "At least it's Friday!"

To the left, James Olivieri and Jennifer Baxley arrive to school together in James' new car, a 2002 Grand Prix.

Below: Just on time, Jessica Galliano and John Collins make it to school before the first bell on an early monday morning.

Longing for a place to park

Lack of parking forces car-owners back on the bus

You've completed driver's ed., and you finally have your license. Now that you have a car, your ready to show off your new wheels to your classmates. Except theres just one problem; you have no where to park!

Junior Tom Defilipo said, "If I had a parking spot at the school and I didn't have to park down the street, I could leave 10 minutes later."

The insufficient amount of parking at our school has forced many car-owners back on the bus. Others have to park in various driveways and side streets nearby the school.

Many students have waited years for the day when they didn't have to get a ride from their parents, take the bus, or walk to school. Now, the only thing keeping them from driving is the fact that there are not enough parking spots for the number of students and faculty.

Fortunately for the class of 2006 (and for every class in the years following), they will only have to worry about parking here for one year. The new school brings a new parking lot, and thus - plenty of parking spots.

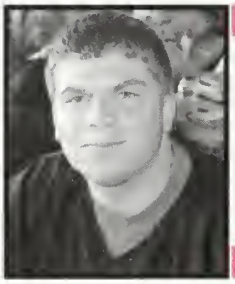
Of course, the new school and parking lot doesn't make it any easier for seniors or juniors who struggle to find spots right now. "Since the pig-pen has been taken over by juniors, it's hard for seniors to find spots," added Ellen Henshaw on the parking problem at hand.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Located a short distance behind the aging, current school, foundations for a new building have been set

Students vs. Teachers

What would you like to have in the new school?



"I would like to have a better learning environment both inside and outside of the classrooms."
-Mike Sharp, Sophomore

"In the new school, I want better classes with more to choose from."
-Ashley Frost, Sophomore

"I am looking foward to having all the newest technology at my fingertips."
-Mr. Daley, History Department

"In the new school, I want a larger library with a better collection."
-Mrs. Gabrielle, Librarian

This year, the cross country meets were held at the Whitman Town Park because of the construction. What was once the entrance to the cross country trail is now the entrance to what is going to be the new Whitman-Hanson Regional High School.

At the ground breaking ceremony held on September 6, 2003, Mr. James Armstrong, Dr. McEwan, Mrs. Margret Cerilli, and Ms. Gould hold a drawing that displays what the new Whitman Hanson will look like when the building is completed in August of 2005.

Looking forward to a new W-H

Students and teachers eagerly await the new high school

Expected to be completed in the summer of 2005, the construction for the new Whitman-Hanson is already underway. The new school is going to be larger than our current school and it will also have a better educational environment. This better educational environment includes interactive boards and an improved library collection. The students and faculty are excited for the new school, although the current juniors and seniors will not be attending it. Senior Laura Hardiman said, "The new school is a much needed improvement, so it is unfortunate that our class cannot reap its benefits."

Even though the majority of the construction is taking place behind our current school in the woods, some of the work is being done towards the front of the school. This work being done next to one of the parking lots seems to be a problem to some of the students. "The dirt and dust from the construction is making my car fithly," senior Melissa Washburn said when asked about how she felt about the new school.

All in all, the students and faculty can agree that the new school is something to look foward to. Sophomore Derek Kehrein said, "I am looking forward to the new building. The new equipment for both the students and teachers will leave us with a better learning environment. I think that it will refresh the Whitman Hanson school system."

In the math portables, students have found that it's not only their peers that may be geeks, but also their teachers. These "greeks and geeks" won a free breakfast for showing their school spirit during spirit week.

Below: Jennifer Farrel and Allyson Donovan pose for a close up in their inside out and backwards clothing. These girls definitely stood out amongst the rest.

Seniors Kristen Borgeson and Ryan Bailey pose after a quick bathroom break. Although hard to recognize, these two showed their spirit by switching their t-shirts and pants around for backwards day.

Taking a quick break from Gym class, Senior Allie Finch and Junior Daren Bonzagni go arm-in-arm for a quick snapshot on hat day.

Dressed to Impress?

Student participation increases as week's events continue

As the days went by during school spirit week, members of every class showed more spirit.

Much effort was made by student council and others to get the students to be spirited during backwards day in particular, but not all students responded.

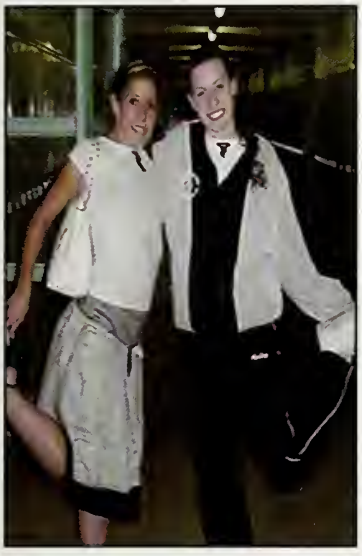
On the other hand, Hat Day seemed to be a big hit. The student body showed their school spirit by wearing different and unique hats. This was a great improvement compared to the spirit days early in the week and the final two days saw a higher level of involvement.

The success of this day makes sense since wearing hats is not normally allowed during regular school hours. On Hat Day, this was a privilege that many students and teachers took advantage of.

Selecting some different spirit days could spark more interest and enthusiasm in a larger portion of the student body over the course of the whole week. Still, maybe the uncertainty of standing out on Monday makes some people unsure about getting into costume.

Needless to say, those who participated in this years spirit week were definitely appreciated.

Julie Sullivan and Ashley Wall kick up some school spirit by transforming their clothes inside out and backwards.



Hats were displayed throughout the school on hatday; fuzzy hats (like Brandy Pina's shown below) were popping up everywhere.

Left: Seniors Kelly Petersen and Nicole Sidor show off their inside out and backwards clothing on backwards day. Nicole added, "I play soccer, so dressing up as a football player was definitely backwards for me."

As a fundraiser for student council, there was couch seating raffled off for the Homecoming game. Lucky senior Shawn Whitlock won the raffle, so he and his friends enjoyed the comfort of sitting on the sidelines watching the game up close.

Though this mask did not later appear during History Dress Up day during March Madness, the face of Richard Nixon appeared when the Panthers socked it to Randolph.

Along with numerous varsity athletes, the panther encouraged future generations to show their school spirit and attend the homecoming football game being held that evening.

Christopher LoPilato listens to his coach between plays to discuss the next big move that he will make going on the field.

Bundled up, seniors Cynthia Okerfelt and Keith Fearon smile from the bleachers for a heart warming picture at the homecoming football game. "I'm glad we won the Homecoming game. It's a nice victory for the football team," Cynthia commented when the game had ended.

The Panthers go back out onto the field to tackle Randolph in a few more plays before the end of the game.

As the fire is swirling these girls have no fear of the flaming torches. Senior Andrea Kinch and Junior Tricia Peters show off their firey talent.

Breakin' a Sweat!

At the Homecoming football game, the varsity team generates the only heat

As Homecoming week was coming to a close, our boys of the football team were sure to keep the spirit going straight through to friday night, which was the Panther's Homecoming game against Randolph.

The game was a victory, with senior captain Mark Kelliher scoring two touchdowns just in the first quarter. This win was certainly a spirit boost for both the fans and football players.

Even though it was an exciting game, most fans were bundled up in the stands trying to keep warm. Senior Alexandra Lawlor commented about the weather, saying, "Everyone's freezing, but it seems to add to the football atmosphere." Sitting with Alexandra was senior Ellen Henshaw who added, "It's a great game, but I can't feel my toes!"

As the game went on, watching from the sidelines was senior Adam Bartlett. The hard work and dedication he gave to his team was cut short when he injured his ankle in a prior game with Xaverian.

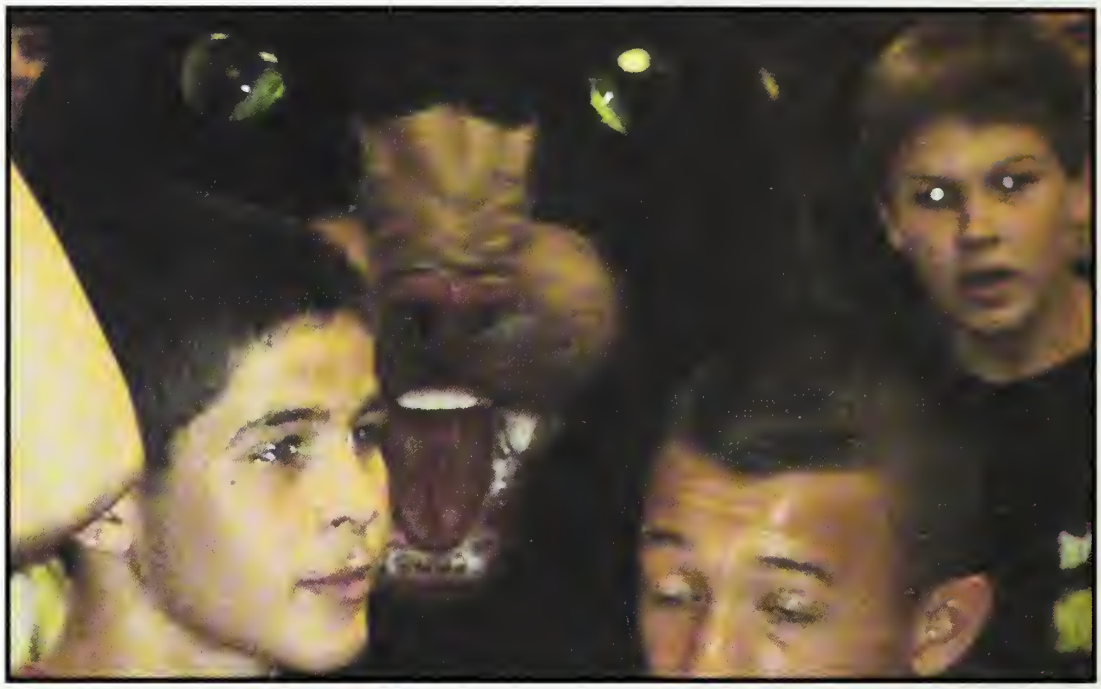
Adam regrets not being able to play with the team his senior year. A lot of people seem to agree with Bartlett's comment. Senior Jessica Gibson commented on the situation, saying, "It's really unfortunate for him to have an injury his senior year, but he seems to be dealing with it well."

All in all, the homecoming game was a great way to end another spirit week at Whitman-Hanson.

Senior Adam Bartlett watches on the side lines, due to an ankle injury that cut short his final season after he had prepared so much to be a major contributor to the Panther defense.

Where's the Panther? Mixed in with a group of eighth graders from Whitman Middle stands our beloved panther mascot.

As President of Student Council, Ashley Wall speaks to the eighth graders at Hanson Middle School on what school spirit is really all about.



Designated student leaders and athletes were chosen to represent Whitman Hanson on a field trip to local elementary and middle schools in both Whitman and Hanson. The students happily gather on the 'Spirit Bus' for a quick snapshot.

Show Your Spirit!

Senior class Vice president, Kelly Petersen, explains to the Whitman Middle School students all about the Homecoming Game.

Seniors James King and David Gianunzio getting read to chant at the Hanson Middle School.

Spirit Bus 2003 reaches out to younger grades to encourage school spirit

Student leaders of both the student council and sports teams were selected to visit with younger students in Whitman and Hanson schools. The trip allowed for these leaders to express the importance and advantage of school spirit in high school. They gave examples of appropriate school spirit and put together group activities that pulled together each and every student. The young students learned well-known chants for their future years at Whitman-Hanson High School.

By demonstrating to a younger age the need for school spirit and pride, there will be more hope for the students in lower grade levels to express school spirit once they've reached their high school years. Hopefully this trip has encouranged some younger Whitman-Hansonites to better represent our schools' spirit and pride in years to come.

Senior Julie Sullivan encourages the students at Duval Elementary School to participate in a well-known Whitman Hanson chant.

Our Panther is taking time to give a friendly greeting to some future panthers of Whitman Hanson High School.

Sending Care From Home

Students and families join local American Legion to send packages to troops

While two students sit assembling parts of the care packages in the picture on trhe right, the large group below is the support group led by Linda McMaster.

There is a support group started by Linda McMaster and both her sons that are co-founders of the support group. The Hanson Legion and Whitman VFW started the group out. The first meeting they had collected twelve members. It was extended through out the South Shore, but was mostly Whitman-Hanson residents were involved.

One hundred and fourty four local people mail out to the troops and it was all due to the community. There are monthly mail outs to Iraq, Jubudi, Afganistan, and just around the world. There are two different mailings for the troops. There are two monthly meetings, one meeting is used to catch up on what is happening so far and what's planned and to go read out letters that were sent back home and to write letters. The second meeting is about how they would prepare to send out packages to the troops. In the group, members have mentioned how many soldiers have come home and are going to return overseas.

They liked the members of the community kept sending support from home.

It is important for everyone to remember all military people, to remember and support them because they making us all proud for the job they have been doing.

Voice of Democracy Winners

Students who are in junior and senior English classes are asked to write a Voice of Democracy paper to enter the contest sponsored by the VFW. The winners are chosen by the VFW and awarded prizes. Gwen Tindall's essay took first place this year. Ben Jablonski came in second, and Amanda Kut rounded out the top three.

The Capture of Saddam Hussein

On December 13, 2003, Saddam was found and captured near a remote farm house in Tikrit, Iraq. He was found by a group of American soldiers in a small tunnel underground. The hole was about eight feet deep with just enough space for him to lie down. The area was a small mud hut compound with a "spider hole" entrance, which was hidden with bricks and dirt. Also found in the hole with Saddam were two AK-47 rifles, a pistol, and $750,000 US dollars. He was taken into custody by our soldiers without resistance and taken to an undiclosed location. At this time, the government is still determining what should be done with Saddam Hussien.

LOCAL VOICES SPEAK FOR OUR HEROES ABROAD

MRS. HANRAHAN WAITS WHILE FAMILY MEMBERS SERVE ABROAD

"My daughter-in-law, Captain Shannon Hanrahan is currently stationed in Baghdad where she has been for ten months. Shannon is a JAG officer attached to the 41st at Artillary.

My son, Capt. Kevin Hanrahan was in Irag for five months attached to the 15th Expeditionary Marine Battalion. He is a military policeman.

They were both deployed within a week of each other and are both in the Army. Kevin was sent back to Germany because he was scheduled to assume his own command. While they were both in Iraq at the same time they never saw each other. He is scheduled to go back to Iraq again. My hope is that they will see each other before he is deployed back to Iraq. While I am not happy that they are there I have to respect the fact that this is part of their jobs.

My husband was also deployed for eight months during Operation Desert Storm. The most difficult part of deployment is the inability to communicate. The fact that we can sit and watch the war on TV is very disturbing. I find it makes things all too real."

GRADUATES ACTIVE IN THE MILITARY

Captain Shannon [Callahan] Hanrahan '93 – She's a captain in the US army [JAG officer]. Stationed in Baghdad in 2003.

Corporal Patrick Tobin '00 – Serves as a USMC Air Traffic Controller. Has been deployed in Japan and is currently stationed in Africa.

Corporal Bobby McMaster '00 – Serves in the USMC Weapons Co. Has been deployed in Korea, Kuwait and Iraq. He is currently stationed in Africa.

Lieutenant Mike Robillard '99 – Serves in the US Army airborne infantry. Has been deployed in Korea and Iraq. He is currently stationed in Baghdad.

Staff Seargant Laura [May] Lincoln '91 – She's in the US Army. Deployed and currently stationed in Iraq

Lieutenant Commander David Larsen '90 – He's in the US Navy Pilot, LC on Jan '04. Deployed and currently stationed in the Persian Gulf.

Specialist Brian Fontaine '00 – Serves in the US Army in armored division. Has served in Kuwait and Iraq, and is currently stationed in Iraq.

Corporal Jerry Sparks '98 – Serves in the USMC 1st Marine Division. Deployed in Kuwait and Iraq

Brian Weckbecker '02. Works with electronics in US Navy. Currently stationed in Virginia.

Captain Kevin Hanrahan '92. Serves as a Captain in the US army. Deployed and currently stationed in Iraq.

Specialist Thomas Finn '96 – Serves in the US Army 379th Engine Co. Has been deployed in Kuwait and Iraq. He is currently stationed in Iraq.

3rd Class Petty Officer Matthew J. Duhaine '99 – Serves as a Master of Arms, US Army. Deployed and currently stationed in Mayport, FL.

Seargent Jeff Cordeiro '93 – Serves in the US Army National Guard. Has been deployed in Kuwait and Iraq. He is currently stationed in Iraq.

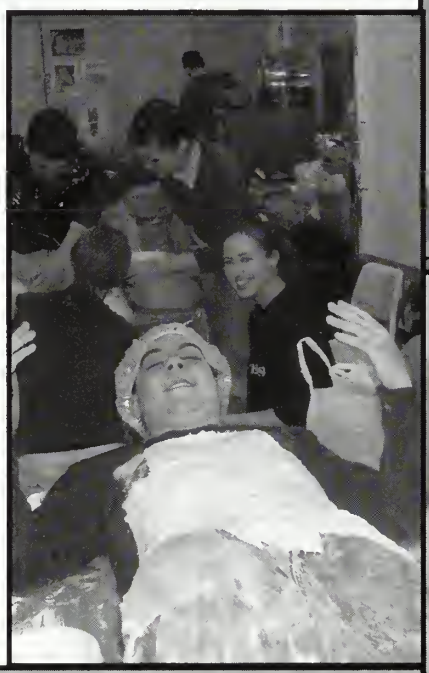
Seargant Charles Fruzzetti '75 – Serves in the US Army National Guard. Has been deployed in Kuwait and Iraq. He is currently stationed in Fort Drum, NY.

SENIOR SHAWN WHITLOCK SPEAKS OUT

"My cousin Matt is in the Marines for about three years and he got sent over to Iraq. He is home now, but he's been over seas for about nine months. I was really worried when he was over there and I missed him very much. I did not know how this war would turn out. I wish the situation didn't escalate to the point that made war the only way to resolve the conflict. My close cousin Pat is in the service but he has not yet been sent over seas to Iraq. If he was sent over to Iraq I believe I would be even more worried than I already am."

Academics and Faculty

While the picture of Jon Grasso on the left shows the beginning stages of the Art Workshop project, one of the finished products cam be seen in this picture to the right.n with hat are just a few sculptures that were made.



Jon Grasso looks like he is having fun in Art Workshop. Jon volunteered to use his upper body as a model for the plaster the class is using to place near the murals down in the foods hallway.

For Theme Day, the Science Department wanted to heat up November and they all dressed in Hawaiian attire in order to win a free breakfast. They had taped fake palm trees to the walls in their hall to complete the transformation.

DROWNING IN NUMBERS

For the second time in two years, the Math Team clinched a third place finish in Division 5 of the Southeaster Massachusetts Math League. Members of the team included Pam Clemens, Honathan Curran, Jakob Desaffel, Byron Drury, Sara Egan, Sara Ferry, Christine Hazlett, Katie Moore, Amanda Morrison, Alison Nugent, Mark Pare, Emily Reynolds, Punky Schellenger and Kara Tabor. Drury, a National Merit Scholarship Finalist had the strongest performance on the team at the meet hosted at Whitman-Hanson. He was in ninth place out of all the students on 30 teams.

In preparation for her big final, Kerri Griffith takes down some notes given to her by her teacher, Mrs. Cambell, in her geometry class.

In Mr. Morgan's Focus on Algebra I (A), James Rafferty volunteers to do an equation on the board to help his fellow classmates understand the lesson. His understanding of the math equation was also limited, so he shrugged his shoulders and stated, "If I knew how to find 'x', this might be easier."

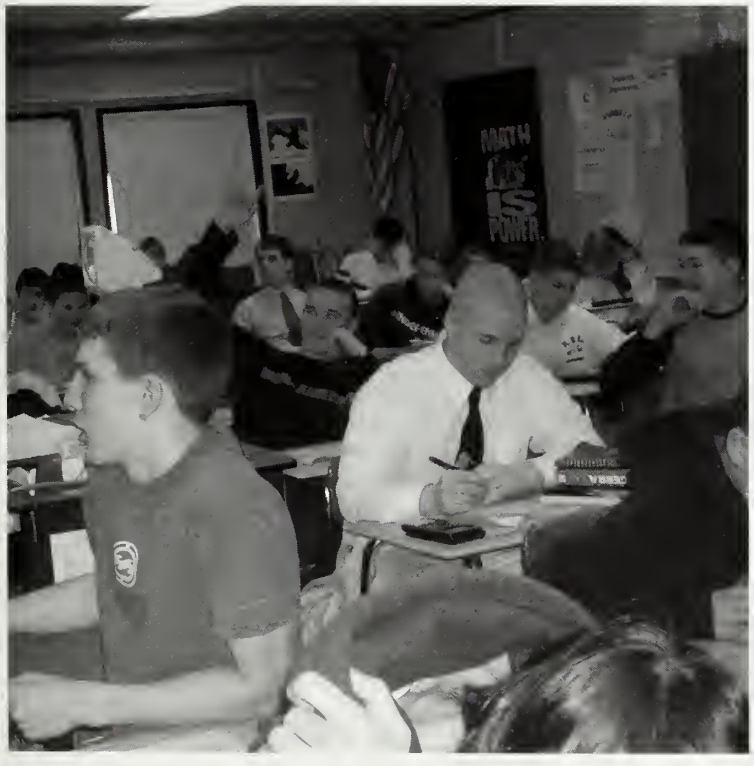
MATH

Math teachers use more creative lesson plans to help students better understand the lessons being taught to them

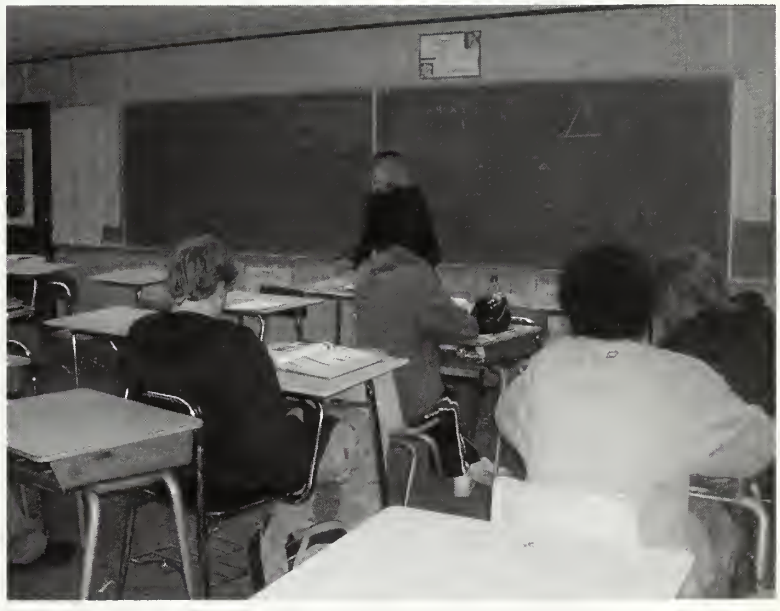
Math class--some people love it, some people loathe it. But no matter how old you may be, the odds are you have a math class appearing on your schedule. When you think of math class, you probably think of sitting at a desk for 83 minutes solving problems and listening to your teacher drone on about the pythagorean theorem. But teachers are trying to make the math atmosphere more fun by breaking students into groups and having them do projects to help them understand the importance of math in everyday life. Some classes do posters while others just break into groups to attempt solving the hardest of problems. No matter how they do it, students are more likely to understand the problems given to them and the formulas written in their notebook when given a chance to sit with peers and work on solving them together as a group rather than by their selves.

Freshman Nick Connelly tries to figure out the answer to an algebraic expression while in Mrs. Russell's Algebra I (B) class.

Freshman Lauren Ahola vigorously works through an algebra problem during her Algebra I (B) class.



Students in Algebra I (B) try to solve some problems using the formulas for perimeters given to them by their teacher, Mr. Clifford.

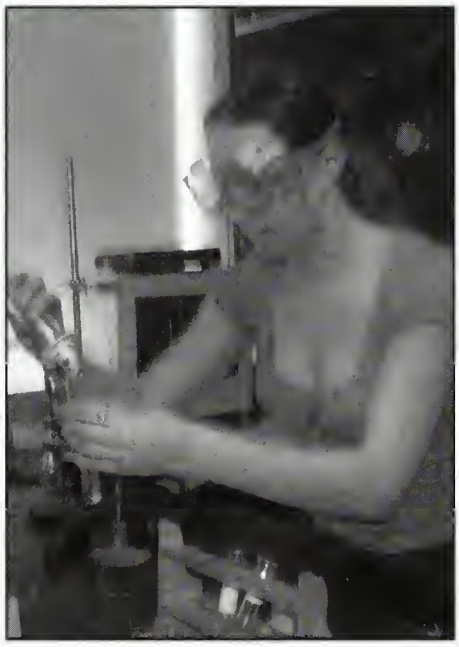


In Mrs. Ortega's Geometry class, students listen attentively and follow along in the book as she introduces them to a new geometric equation.

Wavelengths

This year's winner of the annual Bausch & Lomb Science Award in junior Kathleen Moore. The recipient of the award is selected by the Science faculty. She is now eligible to apply to the University of Rochester as Bausch & Lomb Scholar.

Seniors Christine Gillis and Lyndsay Hammond work hard as they put together Solar Houses in Mr. Thrasher's Environmental Science class.



Jessica Huffman leans over the table carefully using her lab techniques to discover what it truly is to be a scientist.

These four students work to their best ability to solve any kind of equation they put their mind to.

Brendan Daley maneuvers himself up the stairs as fast as he can go in a horsepower lab he's taking part in.

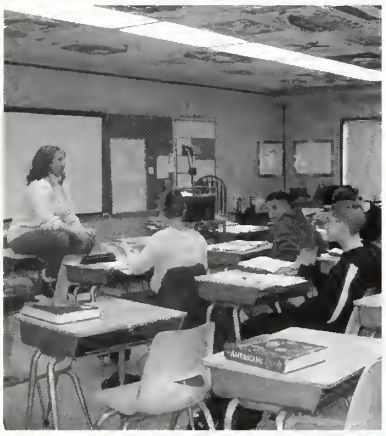
Meaghan Miller, also running in this active horsepower lab, shows how quick and easy it really is.

Michael Kokoliadis very carefully pours a substance into a test tube trying not to spill even the smallest drop.

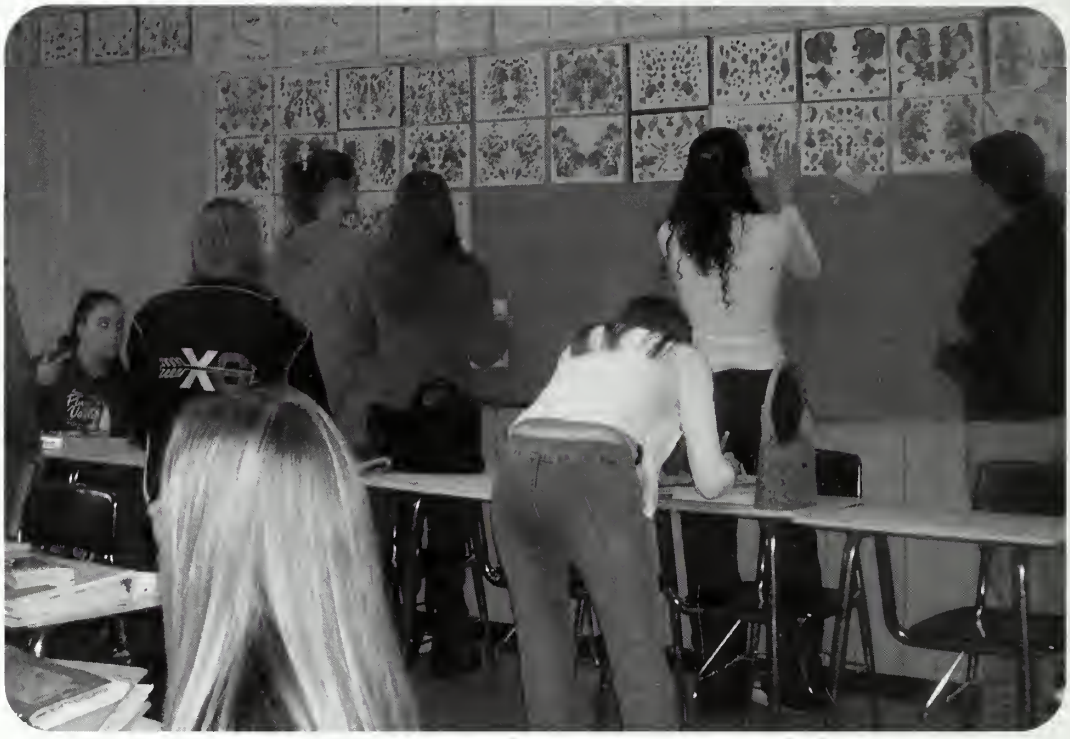
Juniors Josh Cross, Angela Savage, and Jen Baxley work together dilligently, as they sport their stylish goggles in a lab.

SURFING THROUGH TIME

Whitman Hanson won not only the most awards in the Framinham State College research paper contest, we won one-half og the top ten awards. Junior Hiliary Peters won third place and junior Greg Ford won Second. Juniors Cassandra Costantino and Casey Petterson, along with senior Ben Jablonski were all in the top ten. Junior Brandon Josseyln, along with senior Patrick Hill and Mark Pare received honorable mentions for their papers.



In Mrs. Adelsberger's US History class, students listen attentively as she goes over the material for their first test of the new semester



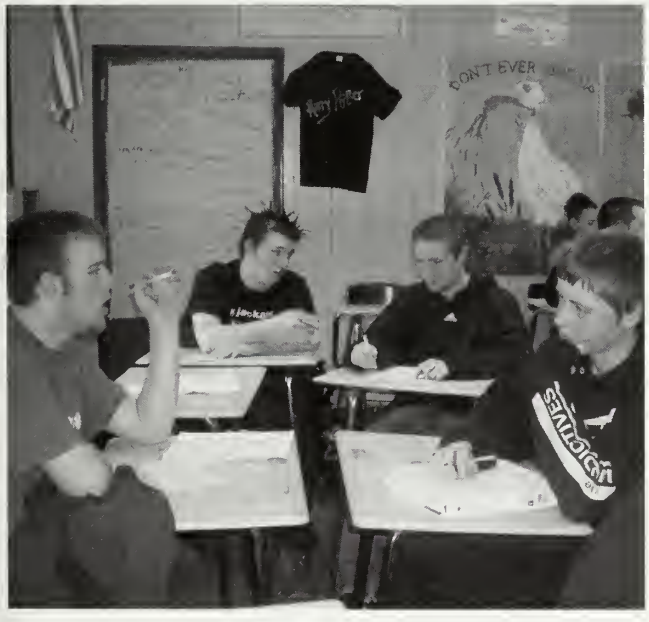
In Mrs. Lozzi's AP Psychology class, students got a chance to make their own ink blots. When asked what hers looked like, senior Ashley Wall stated, "All the spots of color form together to make what looks like a butterfly."

HISTORY

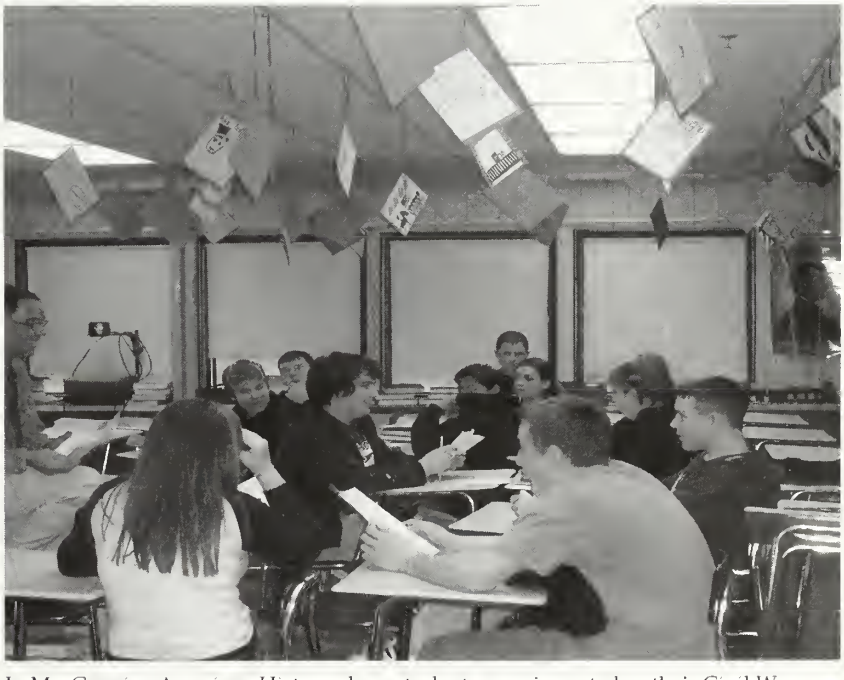
Students and faculty reach out to former Whitman- Hason graduated serving overseas

When most students think of a history class, they think of memorizing dates and important historical figures. this year the history department decided to do something out of the ordinary in the curriculum to get more involved with our troops and the war efforts. They put up a bulletin board recognizing former Whitman-Hanson gradutes who were serving overseas. Teachers including Mr. Googins and Mr.Daley had their classes write letter to our service men and women. the department found this as a great opportunity to allow current students keep in touch with former graduates. The department hopes that by doing this, students will have a better understanding of the importance of what these young men and women are doing.

In World Civilizations I, freshman Paul O'Brien, Ben Ford, and Stacey McDougal prepare a group presentation on Incan culture.



In Mr. Lynn's Assassinations class, a group of boys get together to prepare a presentaion on Abraham Lincoln to study for the final.



In Mr. Googins American History class, students remain seated as their Civil War projects hang over their heads.

TITLE WAVES

Their essays about "What Patriotism Means to Me," earned six students a total $220 in the annual Fleet Reserve Association contest. The top three in the sophomore class were Kelly Johnson, Stephanie Crisp and Erin Shanahan; in the freshman class the winners were Steven O'Connor, Patrick Downey, and Christine Hazlett.

Apparently sophomore Mark Doyle is enjoying the discussion lead by his teacher Ms. Grunin about short stories in his English II class.

While in his English IV class, senior Mark Mackin quickly jots down notes about Hamlet, given to him by his teacher Ms. Roan. When asked what he thought about the play Hamlet, he stated, "Hamlet was a good play, although I didn't like how Juliet died at the end." (note: Mark got an A in English IV.)

ENGLISH

The summer reading lists are updated to ensure students enjoy the required reading.

The summer is coming to a close, and you're looking forward to going back to school to show off your tan and new clothes. You are totally ready, except that you didn't do your summer reading. You buy the cliff notes and skim the book, and all you can do is hope that your teacher reviews before the test. Does this sound familiar to you? This situation happens all too often for many students, so teachers decided that it was time for a change. The new reading list has a variety of books that fall into many different genres, including drama, science fiction, and fantasy. By updating the list, teachers hope to ensure that students not only read the required books, but also enjoy them. "I read the novel I Never Promised You a Rose Garden, and in comparison to past years of summer reading, it wasn't that bad. It was good to have a better selection of books to choose from and there was more variety in the types of books allowed to be read," senior Jessica Gibson commented when asked about the new summer reading lists.

While this class of sophomores is sitting in "the round," any students of first-year teacher Jennifer Grunin will certainly remember her energy and creative projects that made for a positive learning experience.

"My favorite book is A Walk to Remember, by Nicholas Spark, because it made me realize how precious life can be.", Katie Rybka, Junior

"My favorite book is The Great Gatsby, by Scott Fitzgerald. It's the only novel in school I've actually read and enjoyed." – Mary Outerbridge, Senior

What is your favorite book you've read either for school or just for pleasure?

Seniors Emily Reynolds as "Ross", Erin MacMackin as "Macduff", Ashley Wall as "Malcolm", and Cynthia Okerfelt as "Lady Macduff" get dressed up to perform a scene from the famous play Macbeth for their AP English class.

Senior Jennifer Robinson attentively listens to her English IV teacher, Ms. Roan, explain act two of Shakespeare's Hamlet.

FROM OVER SEAS

Freshman Emily Adams holds up a poster she made for Mrs. Downer's Spanish I class. When asked what it was a poster of, she stated,"This is a poster of all the seasons. I don't really like how it came out, but I got a good grade, so I'm not complaining."

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

By learning new languages and cultures, students become more aware of the world around them

Learning a foreign language is important "because when you learn a foreign language, you learn someone else's culture and have a better understanding of other cultures around the world." Ms. Daily, as well as some of the other foreign language teachers, try to make learning a foreign language as fascinating as possible by doing many different activities such as using music, playing games, using props, role playing, and acting.

Among the things that language classes did this year include sponsoring a free film night that was held Friday,April 2nd ,they also raffled off pinatas to help people in third world countries. the class also took a trip to the Museum of Fine arts and they picked there favorite painting to analyze.

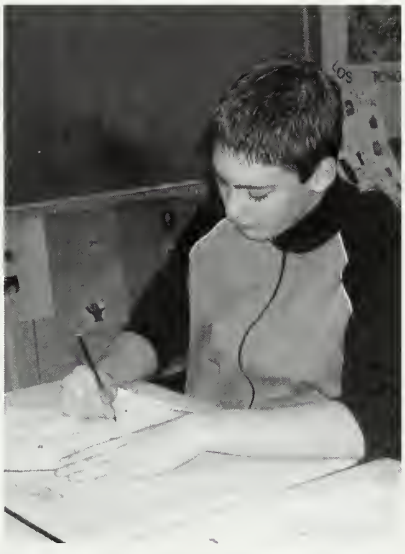
Different people have different reasons for wanting to learn a foreign language. Some of us take it because its something we find interesting or because it might be a useful skill, while others may take it because they are simply required to.Mrs.Daily likes to have fun while teaching her classses. She brought her class to the Maquan Elementary School to teach the first graders about the holiday Dia de los Muertos.They taught the first graders some spanish words and a spanish dance.

Mrs.Gauthier's ASL class went to a first grade class at Maquan Elementary, too. Her class read and signed stories to the children there.They were also teaching them main words and how to sign to a song.

Juniors girls gossip during Mrs Hickeys Spanish III class after a long day of studying for their final exam.

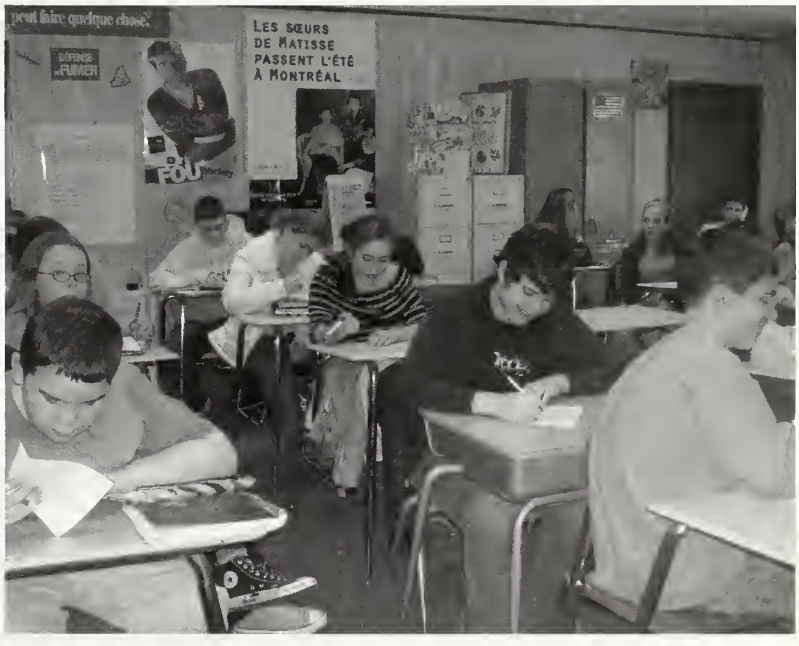
Juniors KaiLyn Getchell, Marybeth Powers, and Leah Oberg enjoy having a party in Spanish III with Ms. Hickey after studying several spanish holidays.

right: Sophomore Philip Mainini is studying hard during his Spanish III class, taught by Mrs. Iacovelli. Both Spanish III and French III, as well as ASL III are challenging courses to take here at Whitman Hanson and require much studying for most students.



far right: Sophomore Stacey Potter digs into her books during spanish class, hoping to leave the classroom with a better knowledge about the spanish culture.

A class of students in ASL I pay close attention as their teacher, Mrs. Gauthier, as she tells the class about her two rabbits she has back at home.



A group of students in French I prepare for their finals by practicing what they've learned.

KEEPING IN SHAPE

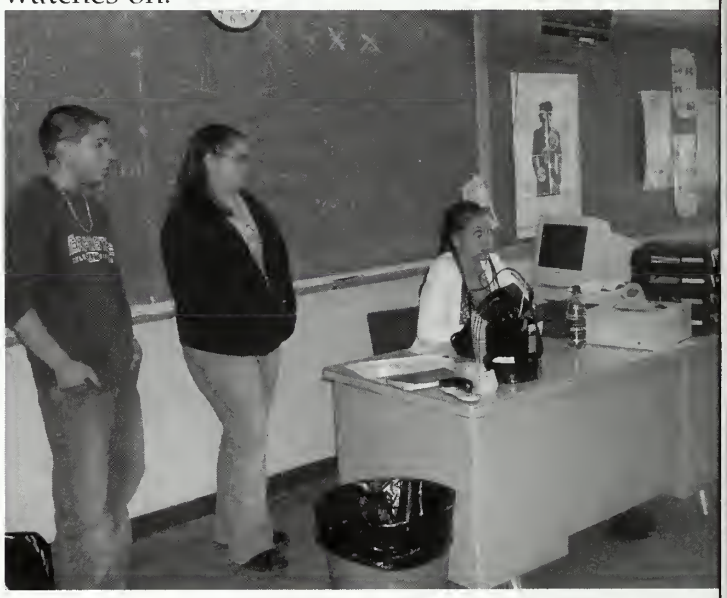
A great deal of the students think that gym should not be required if you play a certain number of seasonal sports. On the other hand, there are many students who feel as though gym is an easy class to get a good grade in.

Ms. Medieros, who has transferred to Whitman-Hanson from Silver Lake this year has been teaching physical education for about 6 years. She enjoys teaching gym for many of the same reasons that the students may enjoy taking it, the socialization aspect of it. Ms. Medieros comments, "I enjoy teaching phys. ed. because of the interpersonal relationships you get to form with the students. A good physical education class can provide many opportunities for life-long learning so that hopefully, people will find an activity that they can do that they will enjoy so that they can stay in shape."

Ms. Medieros believes incorporating enthusiasm helps to motivate the students and make it more enjoyable for them. Junior, Abby Weiss. Abby remarks, "Since Ms. Medieros has been my gym teacher, she has changed it to be more fun and enjoyable. I love gym now!"

Junior "Gym All-star" John Burnett prepares to serve the ball in a game of tennis while having indoor gym.

Students in CPR act out in skits about violence and suicide while their "teacher" Claire Petersen watches on.



In gym class, Senior Jennifer Turpin plays an intense game of ping pong in the hallway with a fellow classmate.

Dan Ballister a freshmen is having a blast while he draws on the gym doors

The Boston Globe Schoolastic Art Award Winners

Hilary Hayward won an honorable mention in the printmaking category.

Sean Leary received a honorable mention in in digital photography and a silver key in printmaking.

Erich Hochstrasser received a silver key in the drawing category for his self potrate done in charcoal.

All for students got honored at a reception for state winners. The ceremony was held at The John Hancock Building in Boston.

Senior Jon Grasso lays back and relaxes while his fellow classmates plaster his chest and stomach to make a lifesize body cast.

Stacy Kolczewski is working on clean up after putting finishing touches on her paainting project.

Creative Splashes

Many times, classes like art give the students a much needed break during the day since these type of classes are usually fun if you have any type of love for art. "Its hard to choose which one you like best, there are good and bad parts about them all", says Ms. Maher. Ms. Maher has been an art teacher at Whitman-Hanson for eight years and has been responsible for expanding the art program here at our school.

All around the school you can find paintings on the walls from many of Ms. Maher's art classes. Its a shame that when the new school is built, many of the paintings will be taken down. However, Ms. Maher is hoping that there will be plenty of display cases, both 2D and 3D, in the new school to display her student's artwork.

Students have also used their artistic abilities to enter contests. One contest that students entered, was the VFW Art Contest for 2004. The contest was a Patriotic Contest sponsored by the Whitman Women's Auxiliary of the VFW. The winners of the contest were freshman Hannah Sances, who won first place. Freshman Craig Hard and senior Erin MacMackin won second and third place, respectively. Honorable mentions also went out to sophomore Meaghan Hickey, junior Scott Cappellini, and sophomore Melissa Costello.

Culinary Arts

Cooking Up a Storm

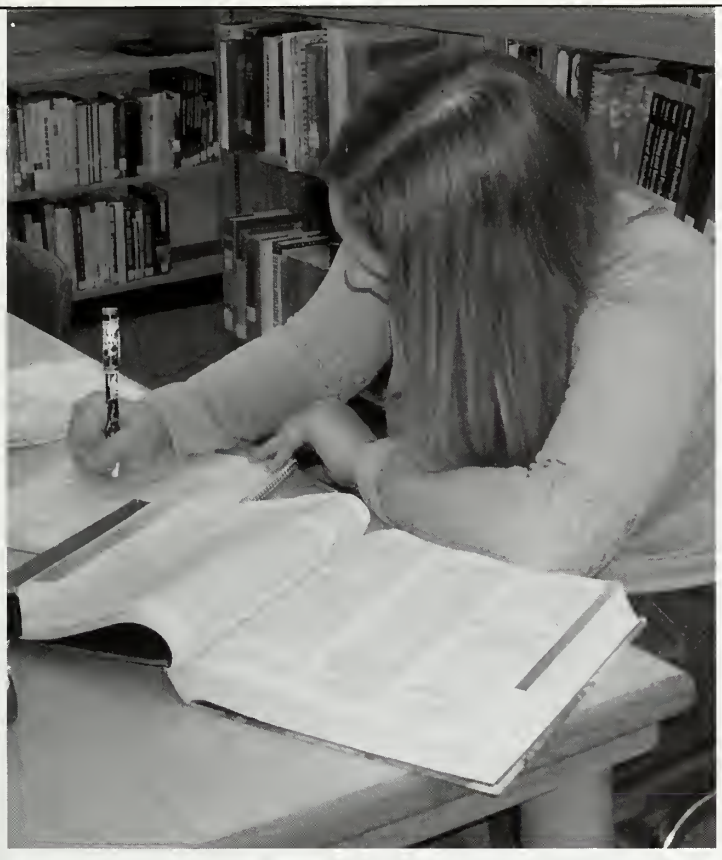
Whitman-Hanson's wide variety of classes is a relief to all students. Everyone has to take math, english, history, and science, but there is more to life than academics. These classes, like culinary arts, give students a break from sitting in a classroom for 83 minutes, and allow them to actually get up and move around a bit. They also learn valuable life skills that you can't get from books alone. Classes such as Human/Child Growth and Development, Restaurant Management, and TV Productions are a few examples of these exemplary classes. Regardless of their future plans, these elective classes pass on skills that may help students as they travel through life.

Senior Michael MacDonald checks on the soup that he had been brewing while in his Restaurant Management class.

Freshman Lucas Kelliher carefully slices a potato to add to his pans of homefries he is making for the Gourmet Gallery breakfast.

In Foods I, this group of students is mixing the batter for their chocolate chip cookies.

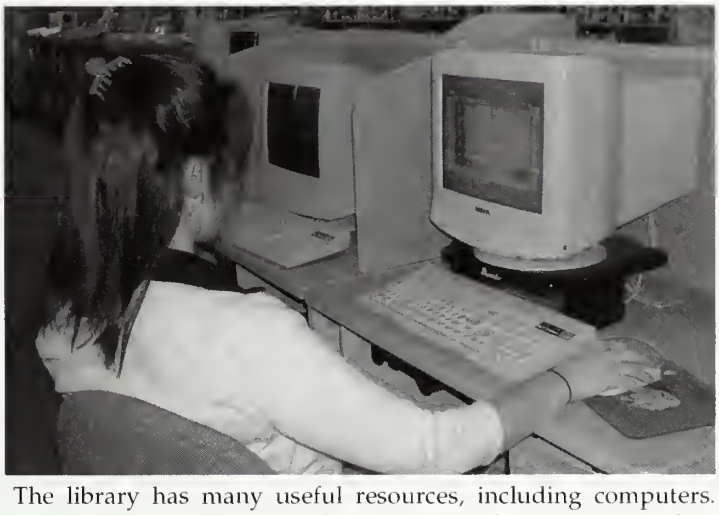
Senior Jennifer Spilewski takes time out of her cooking to make decorative bags to place cookies into. The cookies made will be given to those in need to help spread holiday cheer during the Christmas season.



Left: The library isn't just a place to get books for your research paper, its also a place to get some quiet studying done. Senior Laura Zeusevich takes time in the library to catch up on her AP Psychology homework.

Below: With options in the Guidance office, junior Beth Kelly is always busy jotting down appointments for other students.

Senior Heather White visits her guidance counselor, Mr. Amado, to discuss her decisions for the future.



The library has many useful resources, including computers. Senior Sarah Molinari uses the internet on the computer to do a little research.

Library and Guidance

Helping Hands

Guidance is a busy place to be with students rushing in and out of the door to make appointments with their designated guidance counselors. Some students have to make changes to their schedules while others just need someone to talk to. A student that is a senior spends a lot of time in the guidance office making preparations for their college applications. "I went down there one day and vented to Mr. Forton for at least 20 minutes about how overwhelming the application process was getting," senior Ellen Henshaw added when asked about her trips to the guidance office. Guidance counselors are there to help students along their paths leading to their futures beyond high school. Whether it is to go to college, or to work full time, the guidance office is there to keep students on the right track.

An inspiration to everyone...

A dedicated counclor will never be forgotten

Mrs. Howard has been teaching for the past 31 years at Whitman-Hanson, as well as for years before that at the Northeastern Junior High School in Somerville,and the Ithaca High School in Ithaca, New York. "It has been 31 years of complete commitment," says Mrs. Howard.

Ever since she was a little girl, Mrs. Howard knew that she wanted to be a teacher. "I used to go home after school and play school with my dolls." Mrs. Howard started out as an English teacher after going to school at the University of Massachusetts in Boston. After teaching for a while, she then decided to go back to school and get her masters degree in counseling during the mid 70's. She has been working as a guidance counselor ever since.

When asked if she would choose to do things differently if she had the chance, Mrs. Howard responded with "Absolutely not." She has loved her career throughout the years, as well as all of the people she has come into contact with as a result of her career. "I have loved all of the kids I have met over the years. From the brightest and the best, to the most confused and lonely, I have loved them all." Mrs. Howard has shown to be a very compassionate guidance counselor over the years, and hopes that she has made an impact on each student that she has come into contact with throughout her years here at Whitman-Hanson. "I hope that each student has felt as if they could tell me whatever they wanted and that I understood."

Mrs. Howard will miss her work and the school, but she is anxious for the end of the year and her retirement. "I can tell you, I'm certainly not going to be waking up at 5:30 in the morning. That has been the hardest part of every day for the past years," said Mrs. Howard . After this year, Mrs. Howard plans to spend most of her time traveling the world and pursuing interests that she never had time to do while working. She will also be spending a good portion of her time doing volunteer work for her church, such as hospital visits. From now on, Mrs. Howard will be getting a chance to sleep in every now and then.

Although many of the teachers whom Mrs. Howard had become close with over the years have been retired for years now, she still says that she will miss Whitman-Hanson when she leaves. She has gotten to be close with all of the other guidance counselors she works with, and has become very attached to Mr. Gay, Mrs. Gay, and Mrs. Getchell to the point where she says she would not be able to live without these people. Seeing them on a day to day basis has brightened each one of her days at Whitman-Hanson. No matter how many teachers Mrs. Howard has to thank, the most important people in her life are her family. They have been supportive throughout her career and she is very thankful for that. From each little thing they've done, such as when Mrs. Howard's husband would make time to watch the kids when she wasn't able to, they have shown how much they love and care about her.

Mrs. Howard and her dedication to Whitman-Hanson and it's students will be missed after this year, but we should all be happy knowing that she is enjoying her retirement while sight-seeing and making someone else's day while volunteering for her church.

Elvis is Finally Leaving the Building

Saying Goodbye to Mr. Lorenzo

"Elvis is leaving the building."

It has been rare for Mr. Edward Lorenzo to will leave the building without making this statement to his co-workers, but after 33 years in this district, Mr. Lorenzo will finally be leaving the building for good. Yet, because of the way the retirement system works, the Business department's Elvis will not complete his farewell tour until September 30 2004, a week after his next birthday.

In the meantime, Mr. Lorenzo will continue commuting from Providence every day. Occasionally, he stops at a Krispy Kreme in Rhode Island and comes to school with a few dozen of the ever-so-delicious doughnuts in for the faculty. Mr. Richard Davis, who retired last year, notes this and said, "Last year he walked into my class a few times to practice his retirement job- he would come in with a Krispy Kreme hat on and say 'Hi, welcome to Krispy Kreme'."

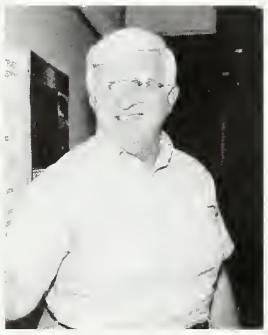
Once that day arrives, he says, "I'm obviously not going to go out and walk 10 miles everyday, I'm just not that kind of guy." He also said that he would have to "study the retired life" because he is unsure of what he will do with all of his time. Mr. Lorenzo owns a small swimming pool business, which he will continue operating, and also wants to travel to warmer climates such as Las Vegas and Florida, along with possibly going on a few cruises. " I just want to get away and unwind until I get a walker and can't move the way I want to," he said.

The first day he stepped into a classroom, he worked as a substitute teacher at Oliver Hazard Perry Middle School in Providence, Rhode Island, and a child threw a chair across the room. When he started teaching at Whitman Hanson in 1971, he taught Algebra I, Algebra II, and Geometry. He later moved on to the Technology/Business Department where he remained, teaching classes such as Accounting.

Making the transition from schools near his home to Whitman-Hanson was never difficult.. "The closeness of the community and technology is amazing compared to the schools where I am from."

Mr. Lorenzo has made many friends in his years teaching at Whitman Hanson, one very particular friend being Mr. Davis (whom retired last year). Mr. Lorenzo told me that Mr. Davis had told him to make sure he enjoys his last year here, and he says he really is enjoying every minute of it. Mr. Lorenzo has been a true friend to Mr. Davis; he has helped him through the toughest of times. " His friendship has been important to me, we've had many discussions- discussions that two friends can have and know that what was said will always be kept confidential, Ed Lorenzo is a true friend." says Mr. Davis.

Principal Ms. Pamela Gould said that Mr. Lorenzo was part of her reasoning behind becoming a teacher. When Ms. Gould got out of college, she was coaching basketball at Whitman-Hanson. Mr. Lorenzo had just gone on a leave of absence due to surgery, so the school was in dire need of a substitute for his classes. They asked Ms. Gould to fill in his spot, and she took the position, not thinking she would enjoy it very much. In the end, Ms. Gould ended up loving the position she held, and later on decided she wanted to become a full time teacher. "Thank you Mr. Lorenzo" she says as her final words to a wonderful teacher. He said he would not be coming back for the opening of the new school if it were not for her asking him too.



Mr. Lorenzo's highest education came from graduating Bryant College. He received a Bachelors Degree in Business and Masters Degree in Education. "It's not until you step into the classroom until you truly experience teaching."

Mr. Lorenzo said, "Every year is unique in itself, and I treasure the students in themselves, I can't just pick one favorite memory in my time here."

"Goodbye Charlie..."

Saying Farewell to Mrs. Strauss

As some students know, along with good weather, also come Mrs. Strauss and her students parading around the courtyard. They are known as the "Follow the leader walks."

For thirty-six years, Mrs. Strauss has been dedicating her knowledge and wisdom to her students, instilling in them not only mathematics, but also the ability to learn from all of life's lessons. "Mrs. Strauss truly cares about her students, in and out of school," says Ms. Joyce and Ms. Caruso, also of the Math Department. She treated all of her students with the same respect and care, not favoring or denying any. "Mrs. Strauss cared about her students and always made sure to keep every one of her students on the same learning level," says a former student of hers, Taylor Olsen.

Mrs. Strauss' strictness never outweighed her humor, which kept past students coming back to visit and thank her after their time at Whitman-Hanson. Her fellow teachers know of her students' reaction to her strictness, but are never surprised to see how much they appreciate it in the future.

When asked what she will do with all her free time, Mrs. Strauss thought for a moment and said, "I plan to enjoy life, read, work on my house and garden, travel to Texas to see my grandchildren and work part time."

Mrs. Strauss has been at Whitman-Hanson for a very long time. However, teaching at one school for thirty-six years can have its ups and downs. She has seen numerous changes here; in the faculty, the administration, and even the students' individuality. On the other hand, Whitman-Hanson as a whole is as it has always been, according to Strauss. "It really hasn't changed. We just go through cycles and try new things."

Mrs. Strauss is always aiming for success. She is always trying to motivate her students to do well. Her co-workers had nothing but kind words to speak of her. They reminisced about "remember when," and her famous quotes always put a smile on someone's face. "Am I okay?" "Are you alright?" and "Am I losing it?" were only some of her common phrases. Apparently, Mrs. Strauss is not losing it. She plans on expanding her knowledge and keep teaching, perhaps not in a classroom, but she will always teach in some way. "I didn't really want to retire, but the decision was I have given so much to teaching and I want to be able to enjoy life before its too late."

Ms. Joyce, a past student, colleague and friend of Ms. Strauss', says, "She was and still is the best 10th grade Geometry teacher that exists!" Mrs. Joyce is also a great math teacher and it just shows how much of an impact Mrs. Strauss has on students.

"I will definitely miss teaching inside the class, watching children learn and being excited about learning," says Mrs. Strauss. "I leave my students my famous quote, 'I'm confused!' I leave the teachers all the extra educational jargon that goes with the job. And I leave the administration peace and quiet."

No Encore for the Classroom

Versatile teacher to pursue creative talents

Mr. Bonaparte is in fact a very diversified man. Outwardly, he may appear quiet and shy, but from his early days as a band organizer, his zest for life is evident. When referring to his music, he goes by the name of Anthony James. Musically talented, he not only writes his own music, but also sings and plays the guitar.

His keen sense of humor is threaded through his teaching and no one is immune to his clever way of looking at things. "He always has a clever saying about what's going on in the school or world. He always has a clever, humorous way of talking about it," says Mr. Rozen, also of the Science Department.

Family responsibility, weaker vision and philosophical difference with Ed Reform have persuaded Mr. Bonaparte that now was the time to retire. He will miss contact with his students and all the good friends he has made over the years.

Reflecting on all the friendships he has made and the fun times too, he sadly remembers students and staff who died due to accidents or illness during his tenure . The loss of Gloria Compston in an accident was particularly devastating and Mr. Bonaparte recalls that seeing her empty chair on Monday after the accident was overwhelming. With great sadness, he recalled fellow teacher Denis O'Brien, students Donna Porter, Parker Bates and George Murray.

When asked about his plans upon retirement, he quickly responded, "I will continue doing what I always do in a less formal environment through my writing, music, art, photography and volunteer work. I will travel more." Mr. Bonaparte is a multi-talented man indeed.

"Mr. Bonaparte is a witty character who exudes personality and genuine concern for others."

– Ms. Lauren Belden

If he had not chosen his present occupation, he would of liked to have become a clinical psychologist or therapist. He has seen many positive and negative changes throughout his 34 years of teaching. "Whitman-Hanson is like any other school in Massachusetts and the USA, being adversely affected by the misdirected efforts of financial interests and politicians who believe you can legislate for good education. In the long run, Ed Reform has and will cause much more harm than good," stated Mr. Bonaparte.

Everyone wishes Mr. Bonaparte a happy, healthy and fulfilling retirement. "What I will miss most about Mr. Bonaparte are our early morning conversations. Mr. B. has an electric approach to looking at life. I will also miss his sense of humor... especially his passion for the pun," says Mr. Bonaparte's colleague, Mr. Stephansky.

As Ms. Belden said, "the Science Department will truly miss Mr. Bonaparte as will the entire Whitman-Hanson community."

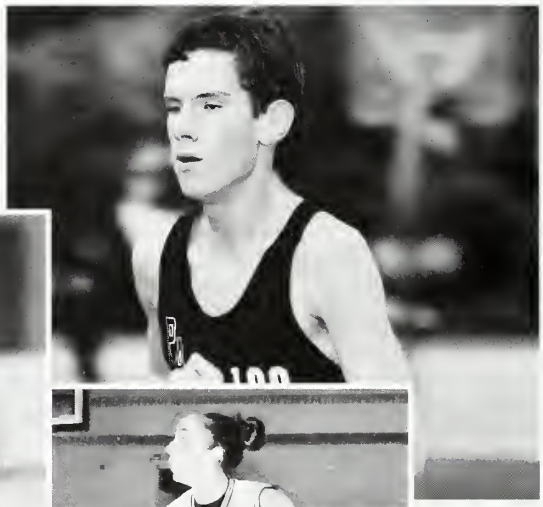
SPORTS AND CLUBS



Sophomore Pat Moran has become an amazing talent on the boys cross country team. Making varsity his sophomore year along with being named as an All-Scholastic All Star are both great accomplishments.

This year, the Panthers Hockey Team qualified for the state tournament with a victory over Sandwich on February 11.

With an average of thirteen points per game, and a total of 278 points in her two years as a starter, Jacqueline Branca, helped the Panthers capture this years Atlantic Coast League title.

This years varsity cheerleading squad finished third with an amazing performance at the Massachusetts State Championships in November of 2003.

Sophomore Kendra Hanson smiles at the crowd while cheering for the boys basketball team.

The boys cross country team remained undefeated this year in the Atlantic Coast League and qualified for states.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The team takes a positive step towards regaining their title as Superbowl Champs with a record of 6-4

With Brandon Josselyn as the quarterback, the Panthers' offense could only improve. Josselyn had an amazing groupr of recievers, with Tim Watson, Randy Fader and Nathan Webber. Passing the ball became a weapon, rather than a handicap. Josselyn also had a good selection of players when it came to rushing the ball. Besides Mark Kelliher, Josselyn could look to Josh Hutchings for a few extra yards.

A few defensive changes also helped the Panthers throughout the season. One good move, was putting Chris Capilli at defensive tackle, instead of running back. Ryan Dillon made the move from tight end to defensive end, with James King. Other key defenders included tackles Matt Boyajian, Tony Cina and Chris Veazie. Before his injury, Adam Bartlett had made a lot of successful plays as a linebacker.

At the beginning of the season, when the Panthers were up 4-0, it seemed as though they would be making another super bowl appearance. This was not the case, however, because the Panthers were unable to earn important victories in November. As Coach Clifford continues to work as head coach, the possibilty of another super bowl victory is very possible.

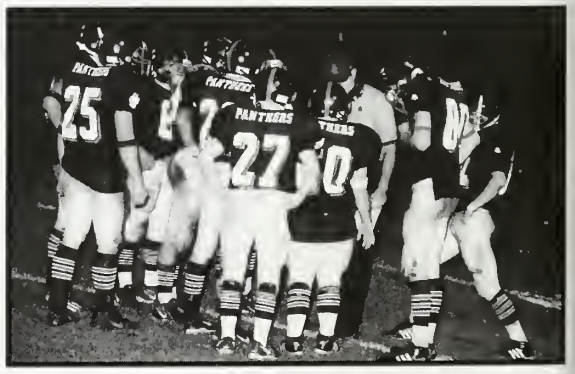
Above Left: Coach Clifford and Mark Kelliher both have a good understanding of what needs to be done on the field. Above Right: Randy Fader anxiously waits for Brandon Josselyn to snap the ball.



Each of the returning Panther players have no doubt that Coach Clifford knows exactly what plays will work for them to bring them to a victory.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

ith no more room to run, Mark Kelliher tries over power his defender.

oach Sean Clifford has been making every ffort to coach a championship team.

DEFENSE!

The key to Whitman-Hanson's defense, is their ability to work as a team. Many players, such as Chris Veazie and Tim McGonagle, are used to playing side-by-side. The ability to feel comfortable with neighboring team-mates, has to provide a stronger defensive line in the end.

TAKING THE TITLE

The Whitman Hanson Boys Cross Country clinch the Alantic Coast League title.

The Whitman-Hanson boys cross country team, grasp the ACL title. With Senior John Miley and Junior Rich Bertino constantly giving their all and coming out on top in every race, they were defianitly a team to beat.

The Panthers came out with a 23-35 victory over Plymouth North for the first time since 1999. With Miley finising first place and Bertino falling a second behind him they were almost untouchable. Senior Chris Rich finishing fifth and sophomores Pat Moran and Caleb Fall taking seventh and eighth places, gained the points to take the win.

The boys placed six runners in the top 20 during the Alantic Coast League team meet. Miley finished seventh (14:51), Bertino finished eighth (14:52), Rich finished ninth(14:55), Bob Sweeney 14th (15:16), Dan McCabe 15th (15:17) and Bryan Ruel 19th (15:52). Miley, Bertino, Rich, and McCabe were chosen as Alantice Coast League All-Scholastics and Moran was selected as an Honorable Mention.

The boys continued on the victories triumph qualfying for states. They finished third in a field of 21 Division II teams. With the love for cross country this boys were unbelievable. They just couldn't be stopped. The boys finished with a total time of 1:25:56. only 14 seconds behind the second place team.

Coach Black said "Place third in the East and qualify for the States is simply an awesome accomplishment" he continued to say "this is the most improved team I have ever coached." The Panthers ended their season undeafeated in the Alantic Coast League. This is probably one of the best teams the Panthers have seen in cross country for a long time.

They have always been close to winning the title but never actaully clinched it. This year was different. Everyday the boys went out for practices, they gave it their all. They were always pushing eachother to do more and encouraging one another.

This year the team will graduate four seniors, Miley, Rich, McCabe and Sweeney. It will be hard to replace these hard working seniors. With Miley, Rich, and McCabe constantly coming out on top, there will be a large gap for the team to fill next year.

Junior Chad Jordan works his way through the race with an unbelievable effort to win.

Elizabeth Craven and Emily Wanschers stick together, as they work towards the finish line.

It is easy to see, by the look on her face, that Andrea Kinch is determined to finish with a new personal record.

Because of the construction project this year, cross country meets were moved into the heart of Whitman, and all racers had to pass the town park.

Kerri Arouca

Only a sophomore, Kerri Arouca has proven herself to be an important asset to the girls cross country team. She will continue to improve as she moves onto junior and senior year.

Seniors - Caiti Cole, Meaghan Miller, Ashley Wall, Andrea Kinch, Kim Rice, Katie MacCurtain, Sara Trefry.

Making Saves

Although the Panthers didn't make it to the state tounament, they made it close, with team work.

Coach Barrington has said of captain Mark Pare, "...he leads by example". This season the Whitman-Hanson Panthers were off to a slow start. Beginning the season with a 0-5 record, most players would have become discouraged. This wasn't the case, because with the help of Mark Pare, the Panthers were only one game away from making the state tournament.

Although Mark had earned himself a number of awards, including the Mark Rybka Award, he wasn't the only award winner. Senior Brad Bunick earned two awards, the unsung hero award, and a league sportsmanship award. Junior Justin Fernandez, also earned the Coaches' Award.

At the beginning of the season, the team was having trouble working as a team. Although their season didn't end with a league title, the Panthers were able to come together as teammates. To the Coaches and the players, that is what this years season was all about.

Above: Senior Panthers Tomas Greksak, Jeremy Dwyer, Brad Bunick, Mark Pare and Matt Muise.

Despite Coach Barrington's words of encouragement, Whitman-Hanson failed to come up with another victory, in their game against D-Y.

When both Fernandez brothers take the field, their opponents are forced to take notice.

Freshman Mike Ford has no problem keeping up with the upper-class players.

Jon Hatfield is great at making key plays, including his tie breaking goal against Randolph in their 2-1 victory.

Mark Pare

Coach Barrington was quick to point out many of Mark Pare's recent accoplishments. These included two years as captain, two time MVP winner, and an ACL all-star team member. He had also won a sportsmanship award, and helped turn the season around from a 0-5 start.

STICKING TOGETHER

The Whitman-Hanson Girls Varsity team stuck together as they struggled in the begining of the season starting off 0-2..

The Whitman Hanson Girls Varsity Team is, as Coach Dave Floeck would say, "A team that will never be replaced, this year we are graduating eleven seniors who all played a huge role in the team." The girls lost their first two games, and were competely heart broken.

However, instead of just given up, they chose to stay together, work heard, and help one another to inprove. As the season continued on the girls grew closer and their advanced their game. Captain Julie Sullivan stated, "We learned to play for eachother and everytime we stepped onto the field, we knew we could never give up, never stop, and never forget why we were there." she continued to say "I think alot of the girls were desapointed that we didn't win the ACL Championship but we worked extremly hard, and I have never been more pround of a team before."

The girls came along way from the beginning of the season. Losing the ACL Championship by only one point. Most of the time, when it came down to getting dirty on the field the girls always came out on top. After defeating P-N for the first time in a long time last year, the girls new they had to beat them agian, and they did.

The girls just came out on top with a whopping 1-0 win over there rival team Plymouth North. Futhermore, they defeated North Attelboro in double overtime with a 2-1 win, in the first round of the tournament.

With Tri-Captains Julie Sullivan, Amanda Kut and Mandy Roan constantly giving their all on and off the field, made the team realize they couldn't give up for anything. It was the great team effort and strong senior leadership that put the girls varsity soccer team in top condition and in a race for the ACL title.

However, this year was a very sad year for everyone. Not only are they graduating two senior (Julie Sullivan and Amanda Kut) who have been on the team since there freshman year, they are losing ten other seniors who have put in their all and made an enormous impact on the team, that will be extremely hard to replace.

Sophomore Melissa Costello jumps up to prevent the opposing team from scoring.

The Girls Volleyball team did not make it to the state tournement like they had in the past two years, yet they still put in all they had to try and get there. The team was lead by first-year coach Jeff Lebel, senior captains Sarah Molinari and Gina Hover.

Towards the middle of the season however, Sarah Molinari had gotten mononucleosis, and the team was without a second captain until junior Allyson Donovan stepped up as a new leader. With that, they moved on and did the best they could.

The Panthers had a very tough season playing teams such as Dennis-Yarmouth, Quincy, and Hanover. "Even though we lost to D-Y, we played a great game and fought till the end," said Junior Co-Captain Allyson Donovan.

Even though the team didn't do as well this year as compared to the previous years they were very motivated.

Some members of the team were awarded by the MIAA. Junior Allyson Donovan received the All-Star award, Senior Emily Taft with an Honorable Mention, and Senior Victoria Struble received the Sportsmanship award. All in all, the girls had fun and developed memories that will last a lifetime. And that's what it's all about.

Special Olympics

"Let me Win but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt"

The Whitman-Hanson Special Olympics team brought home the gold medal for Ring Hockey when they competed at the Winter Olympics in Worcester, MA. The team raised funds for the field trip by participating in the annual Passion Plunge for Special Olympics. They also held a two-mile fundraising walk.

Besides going to the Olympics, the class also took part in many in-school activities. Every Thursday after lunch, the Olympians go bowling at the Hanson A.A. Also, when they have gym class, the team practices hockey and other sports, as well as fitness and conditioning exercises.

This May the Olympians will compete in the shot-put, the 100-meter dash, and the 400-meter race at the Regional Games held at Brockton High School on the 1st of May. Following the close of school, on June 18th, 19th and 20th, the team will also participate in the State Track and Field Summer Olympic Games held at Harvard Stadium in Cambridge. The players will lodge in the dorms at Boston University.

While the Olympians see eachother every day in class, the students also participate in many out-of-school activities together. They have all become good friends who give eachother great support. They participate in some weekend class trip activities such as apple picking and hiking. Seven members of the team also participate in the Downey Basketball league held every Wednesday night. As you can see this is a great group of kids who work hard together and have fun in the process.

The team practiced from August to February to perfect their competition routine and found themselves with a first place victory at th Warwick Vets Invitational. Here the Whitman-Hanson Dance Team performs another flawless routine.

Dance team is an all year sport. The season begins in August with try-outs and then the team attends a dance camp for a week. The team learns and experiences new moves and dances while at camp. Practices don't officially begin until the school year actually begins in September. During the year, the dance team practices Mondays thru Thursdays after school.

The dance team coach, Ms. Lauren Belden, choreographs the dances herself, along with teaching and cleaning up the performance by the members of the team. Lauren shows the team that she is a dedicated coach and treasures each member of the team.

The team attends competitions throught the year. So far this year, the team has attended one competiotion, but are planning on going to compete in another one. As a new activity that the dance team attends is a few of the boys basketball games. At these games, the girls perform at half-time to show fellow classmates, teachers, and parents what they have accomplished during the year.

At Home In Front Of The Crowd

"Majorettes is a year round activity. In the fall, we twirl for half times shows at the home football games. During the winter and spring, we are in competitions as a whole team, and some members get to compete in solo events. In the summer, some members of the team get to go to nationals in Indiana to compete, which is a great experience. It takes a lot of hard work and determination to participate in majorettes, especially if you want to twirl fire. I find the effort I put in is worth it. I love being involved because I get to travel and meet new people with great talents at such a rare sport."

Faculty defeat students in fun, physical game

Faculty	53
Students	50

A near-capacity crowd piled into the gym on St. Patrick's Day to watch the teachers and students duke it out for a victory. The teams took their spots on the court and on the bench with teachers in green and the students in red and black. It began with TJ McGonagle versus Mr. Moriarty for the tip-off. And from there, it was a head to head battle. The teams exchanged the lead several times during the first half, and the students could not hold the lead they enjoyed.

The second half saw both teams' fortunes change. Both teams bent the rules in their own ways while still having a good time; there was a fairly high level of uncalled fouling on the teachers' part and the students inserted an extra player.

"It was a fun game. We had a big lead in the first half and then all of a sudden, the teachers were able to stage a miraculous comeback. We sort of cheated by putting six students on the court, instead of five," said James King.

As the game continued, staff members used veteran guile as a means to clutch, grab, and push students out of their way to the basket. Mr. Clifford caused Nick Nuby to fall to the floor with a shock the was heard by spectators.

The tide has seemed to turn in the faculty's favor, and some felt their victory was all but certain.

"It was a fixed game. It was rigged," said Mrs. Iampietro in reference to the way that the teachers seemed to have a number of non-calls go their way.

Despite that sentiment, the students were up by two until Mr. Floeck connected on a three pointer to put the teachers up by one. Though they had a chance to regain the lead, the students hopes were dashed when Mr. Kain made the last basket.

Mr. Stephansky looks for an opening to pass through the student's zone defense from the top of the key.

Super Bowl

Celebration

As Super Bowl Sunday approached, the students at Whitman-Hanson showed their fanatic spirit for the New England Patriots. With faces painted of team colors and crazy Patriots clothing, it was hard to concentrate on school without thinking about what this chamionship game would bring. Although the Patriots were going up against the "Panthers," a very popular name here. Everyone was behind the Patriots 100% and hoping very much for a Super Bowl win.

A Super Bowl win is exactly what the fans got. Aside from the breath-taking half-time show, featuring Janet Jackson and Justin Timberlake, the score was very entertaining as well. The Patriots were winning 14-10, which would only foreshadow their big win later that night. As the game came to a conclusion, they knew they had done it. With great teamwork, a magical field goal from Vinatieri, and MVP, Tom Brady, the Patriots gloriously celebrated their second Superbowl win of the century with a score of 32-29.

While the Patriots made their way home from Texas, the city of Boston prepared for the upcoming victory parade. At freezing temperatures, all types of wiled up fans made their way into Boston to congratulate and cheer on their team. As the Lombardi Trophy sparkled, Robert Kraft, the team owner said, "winning this trophy is where it is at and we hope we can keep doing it. It's addictive."

After a successful year, all of the Patriots fans also hope they can keep up their winnings and look forward to another Super Bowl victory next year.

Vienna Blinstrub, Leo Boyd, Darrell Jones, and Kate Lawson strut their stuff down the hallway with their Patriots jerseys the Friday before the big game.

The New England Patriots cheerleaders throw around their pom-poms at the victory parade to work up the crowd for the players following behind them.

After a tough competition for the title of the biggest Patriots Fan, Casey McDonough takes home the gold. With her white and blue face, her Patriots jersey, and her crazy, fanatic attitude, there was no question in crowning her #1 Fan.

Science teacher Mr. Moriarty takes a moment out of class to show some puzzled students how to celebrate a Patriots Super Bowl win.

Seniors Mike Friedman, Steph Powers, Tom Foley, and junior, Alicia Dennehy, hang out patiently in the hallway and wait for the weekend to come so they can begin their Super Bowl bashes.

Sophomore Jackie Branca looks to find an open team mate to pass to because of this double team. She often faced such pressure, but her scoring, including 18 against Sandwich, helped secure an Atlantic Coast League title.

Bob Rodgers

The boy's basketball coach, Bob Rodgers, roots on his team and hopes his enthusiasm will pump them up and help them win the game.

Senior John Miley dribbles the ball as he looks for an open teammate to pass the ball to. He scored a season high of 27 in the South Florida tournament in December.

Junior Nick Nuby goes in for a layup to make his team happy with a two-point conversion.

Senior Josh Yucious puts his hands up to provide a good defensive position to prevent the other team from scoring.

Yet again the boys winter track team pulled off another great season. Placing first in the ACL championship, the boys achieved everything they had been working so hard for all winter.

They had a great season , practicing in torrential rains before tough meets such as Dennis Yarmouth. Coach Black called the Spartan regiment the best performance of the season.

They finished in the top ten of the Haverville International. Some season bests where by Chris Lopilato, who had a Javelin throw of 148'8", and Jeff Moreau, who had a long jump of 21", which was also the 3rd best long jump at Whitman-Hanson ever.

These were not the only boys who did well this season, the whole team worked hard to pull of a great season. Coach Black said he told the boys, "Success: don't hope for it, train for it," and so they did.

WORKING HARD

The Girls Varsity Track Team may not have always been in first place, but the were constently working hard to improve.

rst Row: Coach Driscoll, Meaghan Curly, Kimberly Warsheski, Mellissa Costello, Amanda Howland, Meghan oan, Alison Rich, Elizabeth Craven, Emily Wanschers, and Jenn Mooney. Second Row: Mandy Roan, Lauren ivack, Jeannie Channel, and Kerry McDonough. Third Row: Stacey Potter, Amanda Leonard, Raquel ailloux-Morm, Cati Cole, Kim Rice, Meaghan Miller, Chandra Clemens, Kelly Petersen, Heather Barends, ndrea Kinch, Katie Sussky, Kacey Black, Abby Wiess and Jessica Cole.

The girls varsity track team came out with only two wins. Although they had a tough season they were always working hard. With strong captain leadership the girls were always encouraged to never give up. Captain Kasey Black showed her leadership coming out 6th in the New England race. Many of the girls stated that the teams they went up against were all extremely talented, so there wasn't much disappointment if they didn't always win. Furthermore, the competition was tough and there were a lot of superb athletes in their division. The girls had a really good attitude throughout the season, and always stuck together. On the other hand, with no freshmen coming out for the team, and many people quitting along the way, it was hard for the team to stay strong, and may mean disaster for the years ahead.

Senior Nicole Sidor shows us great form as she gets ready to finish the 55 yard dash. Nicole Sidor was constently showing her team mates how to work.

Senior Andrea Kinch enriches her fans while trying to ctach up to her opponent in her meet against Plymouth North.

Sarah McCarthy sports a pair of flashy pants, which are one of her favorites. She bought these unique pants from Filienes; Sarah definately knows how to spice up Whitman-Hanson fashion!

Friends Ashley Rice and Tory Thurston sure know how to have fun with fashion! The girls thought it would be a great idea to go to the mall on a half -day and try to put on as many accessories as possible.

Kristen Borgeson and Lindsay Migre are getting ready for a fun night out together while wearing there new pink sunglasses that they got from Halloween Scence at the Hanover Mall.

Can you hear me now?

Life without a cell phone for most high school kids can be unbearable, as sophomore Jennifer Mooney said, "My mom put it in the washing machine and I didn't get a new one for a month. I felt pretty lost without it because I always had it with me."

In the fast-paced world, there is nothing more important to a high school student than a cell phone. Even though the price for cell phones is very expensive, that doesn't stop most people as our survey shows. Out of 200 surveyed students, more than half of them had a cell phone.

Cell phones are so vital to teenagers because it's an easy and quick way to get a hold of your friends to make plans, to keep in touch with your parents, and also for emergencies. John Collins says, "My cell phone came in handy one time when my car broke down on the highway and I had to call my dad to have him come jump my car."

The big deal about cell phones is that they get better and better as time goes on, you can change the cover on most of them, you can also send messages to your friends or even go online, and you can even take pictures on some of them. So next time you go out leave your cell phone at home and see how important they really are to you and how lost you'll be without it.

While in a class, senior Tory Thurston sneakily tries to check her voicema Students are not allowed to talk on cell phones during school hours, b after school everyone takes them off silent mode and makes their calls.

Senior Jim Pesente uses his cell phone after school to call his friends. He exclaimed, "I don't know what I would do without my cell phone!"

Junior Kasey Black takes time after school to call her parents because she forgot her track clothes. She said, "If I didn't have my cell phone, I would have to run in khakis and a sweater."

"It feels like I'm so busy that I'm never home, so it's nice to have a cell phone so friends and family have a way to get in touch with me," senior Nicole Sidor commented when asked about her cell phone.

doesn't take Katie Lyons five minutes before she is on her cell phone fter school.

Senior John Collins uses his cell phone to play a game while waiting for his ride to come after school.

What do you like most about your cellphone?

Jessica Galiano

"The best thing about my phone is that I can take pictures with it."

Timothy Watson

"The coolest thing about my phone is that I can change the color of the cover."

Sarah Budd

"What I like most about my phone is that I can use it anytime and anywhere."

Mark Kelliher

"I like my cell phone because it has cool games on it. I'm a pro at snake!"

PLAY-DAY, FRIGHT-NIGHT!

Senior John Curran said he bought his shark-and-victim costume at Building 19.

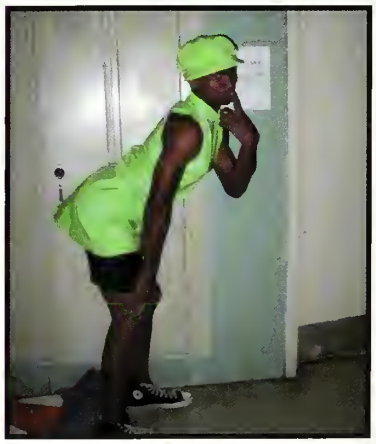
Bottom right: Best friends Nicole Sidor (Christmas tree) and Casey McDonough (present) coordinate their costumes. Nicole said it took a week or two to put her costume together. When asked the price of her costume, she said, "it's priceless!"

Julie May, Lindsay Migre, Kristen Borgeson, Melissa Washburn and Kendra Cheney all take a flash back to the 50's as Pink Ladies and poodle skirt girls.

Laura Hardiman, Meagan Warsheski, Tori Struble and Lauren Mchugh all sit pretty to capture a moment in their fairy-tale day at Whitman Hanson.

Juniors Alison Conover, Ashley Stevens, Jessica Dunn, and Katherine Getchell bought their duck and dinosaur costumes at Walmart, in the kid's section.

Seniors Ashley Burke and Jessicalee Toy get together for a quick snapshot before they go trick-or-treating in their matching dutchess costumes.



Seniors Ellen Henshaw, Lauren Miller, and Cynthia Okerfelt were unique with their self-invented manatee costumes. Lauren bought the masks while she was in Florida over the summer and the sweatsuits were bought from Walmart.

Junior Isiah Queen is wearing a bright green leather getup. He said, jokingly, "I was going to wear pink, but the green brought out the color in my eyes."

Close friends Jenna Walsh, Cody Sibley, Lindsay Andrews, Allie Finch, Caiti Cole, Danielle Rosen, and Allie Lawlor dressed as 'Oompa Loompas' from head to toe, with Stephanie Powers as Willy Wonka.

The Seven Dwarfs - minus one! Juniors Jen Oberle, Meaghan Wright, Kaitlyn Stalker, Katie McGrath, Jessica Cole, and Chris Lopilato dressed up as six of their favorite Seven Dwarf characters from Disney's "Snow White."

Sophomores Kim Warsheski and Melissa Costello made their "trashed" costumes themselves the night before Halloween, using whatever they had in Kim's basement. Kim made her own cactus costume last year as well.

Chris Johnson, Senior

"I completely forgot it was Halloween today. I got out of my car this morning and was like, 'Oh crap! It's Halloween!', and I found a branch, so I figured, 'I'll just be a tree!'"

Joe Sances, Senior

From head-to-toe, Joe dressed up as Professor Xavier from the comic/movie 'XMen.' "I had to carry my wheel chair up and down the stairs all day!"

DECA: New and Improved

The DECA store is "new and improved" and is now being run by Mr. Lebel, a Business and Retailing teacher at Whitman-Hanson. DECA has become more than just a candy store; you can purchase clothes, gifts, and balloons as well. Certain items found in DECA are so popular that the school has to order them at least twice a week. Profits made in DECA have been tripled since last year. All of this money will go to help pay for the DECA competition that many of the students in DECA will be attending. Because of their successful turn out in the store this year, the students will not have to pay much to attend this trip. Mr. Lebel says, "I like working with the students in a new enviroment." The students working in DECA learn many things necessary in the business world and have many responsibilities. They are in charge of stocking, ordering supplies, dealing with suppliers, negotiating prices, and working in the store.

Mr. Lebel is the new teacher in DECA. This being his first year, he enjoys working with the kids in a way that most teachers don't get the chance. He is responsible for teaching them the business skills they need to help run the store successfully.

The DECA store has become considerably more popular in comparison to previous years. Lunch mod is easily the most hectic part of the day for DECA students because students returning from lunch stop by the store to purchase candy to get them through their next class.

Cody Sibley often delivers balloons to several students each day for different occasions. This specific occasion happened to be Sheri Cavicchi's birthday.

Sarah Budd and Lindsay Andrews take a short break from their DECA responsibilities to show off the variety of candy that can be found in the store.

Senior Laura Hardiman came into DECA to buy a balloon for one of her friends. Tory Thurston, another senior who works in DECA, shows Laura some of her options.

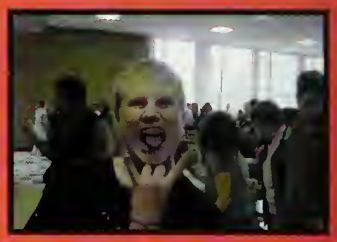
Rose Billings is looking to buy a t-shirt to show off her school pride with the help of Kendra Cheney and DECA student, Sarah Budd.

Drowning in the Music

Ms. Gould: "My favorite artist of all time is Elton John."

Mrs. Hurstak says her favorite concert would have to be Bruce Springstein.

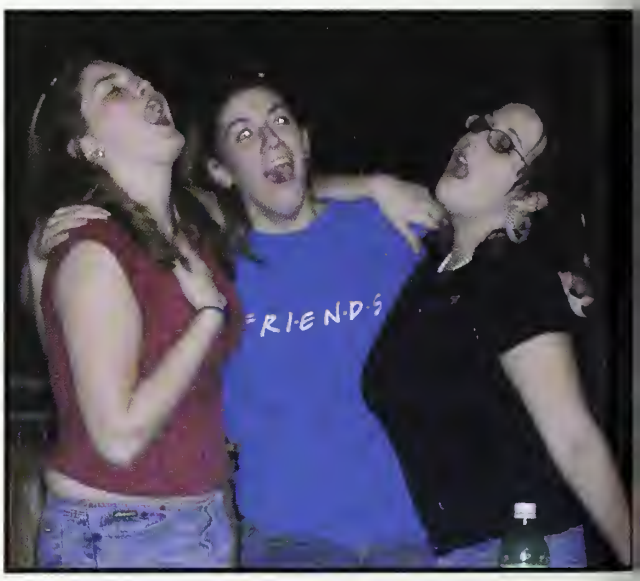
Hannah Sances: " My favorite radio station is Jam'n 94.5; they play the best music!"



Steven Borgeson: "My favorite song of all time is 'Bark at the Moon.' "

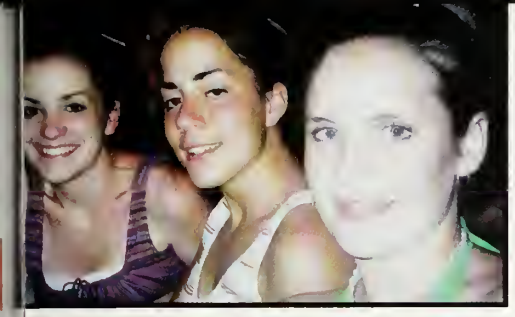
Kendra Cheney, Megg Warsheski, and Laura Hardiman take a break from the hot sun and catch some shade with Pierre from the band Simple Plan after performing at the Warped Tour 2002.

Seniors Tori Struble, Gina Hover, and Cait Squires are rockin out during show choir practice.



Derryl Burbank, Jeff Sweeney, P.J. Martin, Dave Scansaroli, and Eric Clough all form a local, but fairly well-known band called In My Sorrow. The band has been around for two years and the guys perform shows monthly. To the right: the boys are performing at a show with Derryl on the mic and Dave on the bass behind him.

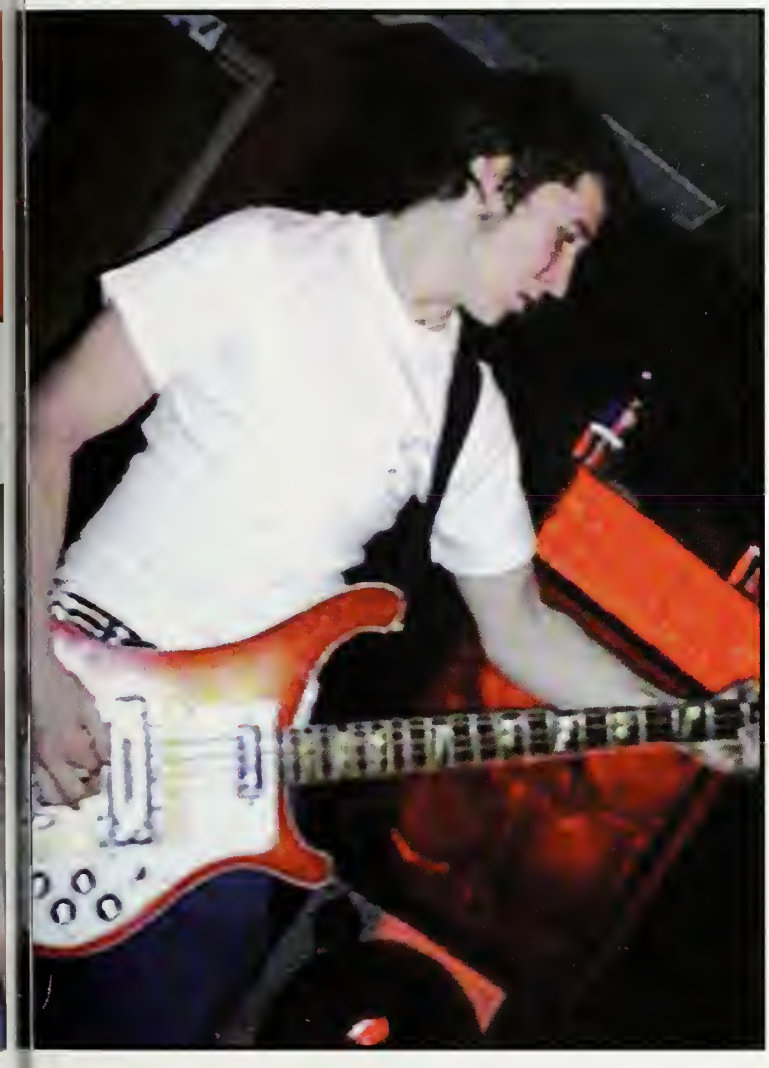
Senior Hillary Haywood wrote and performed her own original song for this year's talent show. Her talent, both vocally and instrumentally, captivated the audience as she was in the spotlight.

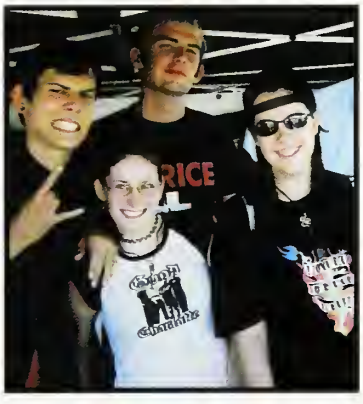


Ashley Rice, Kim Rice, and Lauren McHugh got a little color at the Kiss Concert where they saw some of their favorite bands perform.

Close friends Jenna Walsh, Cody Sibley, and Caiti Cole had a blast at the Summer Jam concert of 2003.

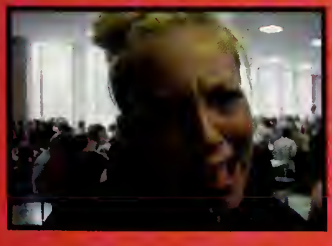
Laura Murphy and Kristen Morris are hanging out with a few members of the band Slick Shoes at the 2003 warped tour.





Cris Johnson has been playing the bass in his band Plan17 for about five years. He also plays the guitar and a variety of other instruments. Plan17 is formed by Chris and five of his friends. The band plays ska music and is well known throughout New England.

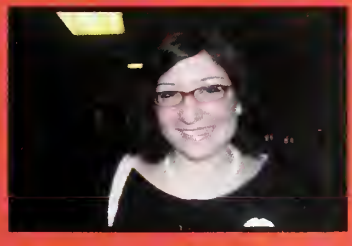
These four marvelous musicians are rehearsing for the talent show during March Madness week. With Jon Grasson on guitar, Mike Robataille on bass, Justin Pereira on drums, and Mackenzie Cusik on the mic - this talented group was a great combination, and a big hit.



Allie Finch: "My favorite band of all time is U2 - they play the best music!"

Alex Cole: "My favorite concert was the Lilith Fair. It was so fab."

Josh Cross: "Have I played an instrument? Of course! I played the clarinet in 6th grade."



Brianne McCaughin: "My favorite artist of all time is Elvis, he is dreamy."

Whitman-Hanson Regional High School

Junior Prom

"These are the Moments"

Friday evening, the sixteenth of May

Two thousand and three

Seven o'clock until Eleven

To be held at

Pembroke Country Club

Pembroke, Massachusettes

Lauren Haley, Whitney Johnson, Heather Barrends, Kelly Peterson, Amanda Kut, Sarah Zare and Whitney Chapman gather at Heather's house before making their way to the prom.

Kristen Hartwell, Mandy Roan, Katie MacCurtain, Ashley Rice, Laura Hardiman, Meaghan Downey, Nicole Sidor, Kim Rice, and Tori Struble gather at the Rice's as they waited for their trolley to pick them up for prom.

Danielle Rosen, Allie Lawlor, Sarah O'Brian, Caiti Cole, Meliss Briscoe, Cody Sibley, Jenna Walsh, Lindsay Andrews, ans Alli Finch look like they are having a great time dancing the nigh away.

The senior class officers, Kelly Peterson, Dan Hopkins, Ellen Henshaw, and Nicole Sidor stop to reflect on a great night that they put together.

Kristen DelaCampa and Lisa Spinney, who have been friends since freshman year,stop to take a picture before making their way to prom.

"These are the moments,
I know heaven must exist,
These are the moments,
I know all I need is this,
I have all I waited for,
And I could not ask for more.
I could not ask for more than this time together,
I could not ask for more than this time with you,
Every prayer has been answered,
Every dream I have's come true,
And right here in this moments,
Is right where I meant to be."

Edwin McCain "I could not ask for more"

Best Friends, Kim Tomkinson, Lesley Manganello, Cheyenne Bethune,Danielle Dolan, and Sarah Hunt gather for a group picture before their dinner was served.

A Celebrated Life

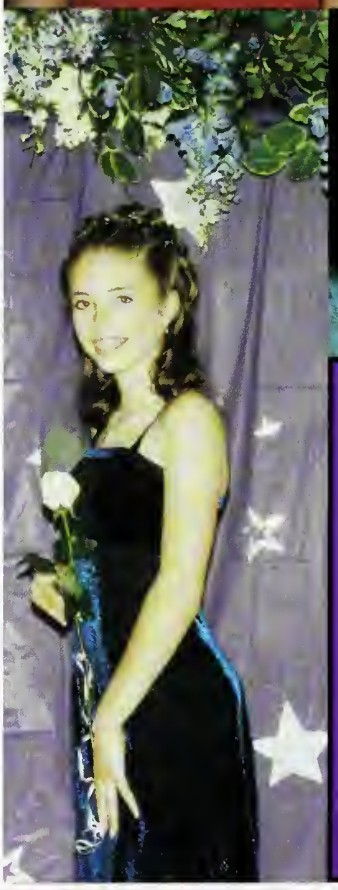
Erin Croghan; the girl with the beautiful smile, and the sparkle in her eye. The girl we looked to for a laugh, for a helping hand, for a great friend. A fun-loving person with a heart of gold, who loved to have good times with everyone. And it certainly was a shock to everyone when hearing the disheartening news in the fall of 2001; Erin had been diagnosed with Leukemia.

However frightening this may have been to Erin, she did not let this complication stop her from being herself and continuing to live her life. Throughout her experience with the disease, Erin's health set friends and family on an emotional rollercoaster. Sadly, 180 days after her diagnosis, our soldier had lost her battle to cancer in April of 2002. Erin's passing left devastation, but undoubtedly, it also brought life-long lessons for all.

Through her experience, Erin taught us all to appreciate; not to take anything in life for granted, and to treat each day that you are given as if it were your last. In her own way, she taught us to love, to forgive, and to have courage and strength in the face of fear. That is why we have come to know Erin as a hero.

Although the sadness may still linger in some minds, we remember Erin with happiness in our hearts. Friends and family of Erin teach us that, by celebrating someone's life, you can keep that person's spirit alive. A few of Erin's close friends decorated her locker for her 'sweet sixteen.' Allie Lawlor, who helped decorate, said, "Even though Erin wasn't here for all to share it with her, it helped alot for all of our close friends to come together and celebrate her 16th in her memory."

The Erin Diane Croghan Memorial Scholarship was also organized in memory of Erin. There have been numerous, successful fundraisers for the E.D.C. Scholarship Fund, such as events at Skatetown in Whitman, auctions, and family fun days including arts and crafts. The thousands of dollars that have been raised will provide funds for Senior, college-bound graduates. Each and every day, the life of someone we've lost will touch the life of another in some way, big or small. And in this sense, we know that Erin's life will continue to thrive in our hearts. Erin will forever be smiling upon us.



"There's a hero
If you look inside your heart
You don't have to be afraid
Of what you are
There's an answer
If you reach into your soul
And the sorrow that you know
Will melt away
And then a hero comes along
With the strength to carry on
And you cast your fears aside
And you know you can survive
So when you feel like hope is gone
Look inside you and be strong
And you'll finally see the truth
That a hero lies in you.."

-Mariah Carey

Erin gathers with her cousins for her picture at their grandmother's house for Christmas. Pictured is a senior at Whitman-Hanson, Rose Billings, who was one of Erin's closest cousins and friends. "Me and Erin were close growing up and had the best times together; she always made me smile."

Erin's mom, Joanne Croghan, stands with her girls in front of a beautiful water display. Lauren- "I love my big sister and wish she could be here, I miss her very much." Trips and gatherings have always been a favorite for the Croghan family.

While vacationing in Florida, Erin's father, Patrick Croghan, gathers the family together to have their picture taken in front of Disney's 25th Anniversary castle cake.

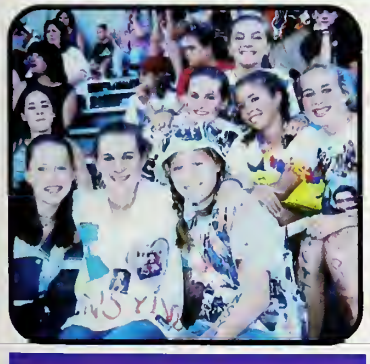
Walking to Remember

In September of 2002, family and friends of Erin Croghan formed a team to participate in the Jimmy Fund Walk in Erin's memory. Pictured at the left are walkers from "Team Erin" gathering at the end of their 26 or 13 mile walk. This was their first year participating, and they all recieved medals at the end of their challenging walk. Also pictured are the participators in the 26 mile walk in 2003, who gathered for Erin before their early-morning start. The Jimmy Fund, an association that helps aid and support children with cancer, receives donations from walkers to allow for medical expenses of cancer patients as well as cancer research. "Team Erin" has helped to raise a substancial amount of money for The Jimmy Fund and will continue to do so in future years.

Pictured below, Melissa Briscoe, Allie Hurley, and Heather Sedgeman keep their spirits high while finishing their last few miles of the walk of 2003. Melissa commented, "No matter how hard it got, I thought about what Erin had to go through and how strong she always was, and that helped me keep going." Overall, the two years that Team Erin has participated in the Jimmy Fund Walk thus far have been a success. The group plans to continue walking; in memory of Erin, and for a great cause.



Cody Sibley, Megg Warsheski, Caiti Cole, Erin Croghan, Allie Finch, Angela Compston, Melissa Briscoe, and Lindsay Andrews reveal their long-time obsession at the NSYNC concert in summer of 2000.

Megg Warsheski and Erin at the NYSNC concert. Megg- "Everyone was so unbelievably excited for that concert - even though we knew we had bleacher seats. It makes me smile now just remembering how much fun we all used to have."

LindsayAndrews- "Me and Erin were inseperable, and Summer Jam was only one of the many crazy times we had together.." Lindsay is one of many who celebrate Erin's life, and are happy to have been a part of it.

Allie Finch and Erin freeze for a picture while dancing crazily around the house. Allie and Erin were best friends since they were very young.

The Biggest Splash Of All!

Keith Fearon lays down comfortably while giving blood for the second time. Keith says that he is excited that he is finally a senior and he is enjoying every moment of his last year at Whitman-Hanson.

Senior class officers Ellen Henshaw (secretary), Nicole Sidor (treasurer), Dan Hopkins (president), and Kelly Petersen (vice president) are proud to be leading such an amazing class!

Mr. and Mrs. Whitman- Hanson Matt Boyajian and Kelly Petersen are so happy to be riding together at the Veterans Day Parade.

While getting measured for her graduation gown, Lindsay Smith said that the last four years have been a lot of fun and she is excited that she is finally a senior. Lindsay also confessed that she is going to be sad when everyone leaves.

The Senior girls gather for a quick picture before the big game.

Showchoir, Drama,Chorus(1-4), Radio(2-4), Guitar(4), JazzChoir(4) Thanks for all the memories, they were the best four years (hard but I made it) and to all my firends you know who you are,and my family.Some lessons I learned in my four years was not to be afraid to be myself,no one else is going to be me.And that if you want to get a polished finished product out of something you need to put in a positive attitude and good hard work. And after it all I can say "With a fiery passion" IM DONE.

This is it,
This is Life.
The one you get,
So go and have a ball.
Because the world don't move,
To the beat of just one drum.
What might be right for you,
May not be right for some.
You take the good,
You take the bad,
You take them both,
And there you have,

I'm not quite sure of what to write, so I hope that what I end up writing will make sense. High school was really fun, but it seems like the whole thing was a blur. I can't remember most of the 4 years I spent here, but I'll never forget one thing, and that's how much all my friends and family have been there for me and supported me. I won't mention any names because I don't want to be responsible for forgetting anyone, but I'll never forget you, you know who you are. ~SahZerZ

It has been four years in high school, and it has been a great set of years. The sad thing is the fact that it just went by so fast. All the tests we took and the games we played just seem to go by so quickly. High school, for me was more of a learning experience, to who I am and what I want to do with my life. All throughout the experiences in this school, it just got better and better. I will never forget the friends I made, the accomplishments I have had and the memories I'll keep.

BATTLETOADS!! They're toads that battle with BIG BIG FISTS. They were born in a ditch on the side of the road in Delaware next to hubcap. It was the same spot where Jewel was born. The Battletoads were mentored by Chuck Norris and began their movie career promisingly, but the fourth Battletoad, Mole, mysteriously disapeared. After his disappearance, the Battletoads joined with CX! and Jewel and eventually conquered the world using their army of hubcaps. Playing the trombone is fun.

Foreign exchange students dive into a new language, new world

After three months of getting used to speaking English, Julia Guiterrez from Mexico said, "When I talk to my mom I confuse myself saying, " I mean or whatever", and my mom says, " Julia! Say it in Spanish!" For exchange student's learning English is both difficult and humorous at the same time.

Julia isn't alone in having funny stories about adapting to speaking English. Elsa Colinas from Mexico said, "One night at my house I went to my host sister's room and I started to talk to her in Spanish. She gave me a confused , 'what?' but I kept on talking in Spanish until she told me, "If you have to say something, it has to be in English. Then we both started to laugh".

The first few weeks here at Whitman-Hanson may seem a little weird, but soon, they become more comfortable with their school enviroment. Alberto Sandoval from Mexico said, "For the first six weeks it was weird and I used to have headaches, now I don't even think about it, I love it because I don't have to be translating all the time".

Spanish isn't the only new language heard around the halls of Whitman-Hanson. Natalia Tavares from Brazil said, "I mix all the words up by speaking English and Portuguese at the same time, sometimes the attitudes of exchange students are so funny".

Natalia isn't the only exchange student who began to confuse her native language wih English as she was learning. Jakob Desaffel from Belgium said, "I'm so used to speaking English that I become horrible at my own language (Dutch)".

Jokob isn't the only student who gets confused while talking. Thomas (Zuzona) Greksak from Slovakia said, "Once my host sister was bothering me, so I started screaming in Slovak. Usually it's spontaneous, I can't help myself".

With all the language barriers, being an exchange student can be hard and confusing, and it certainly has its ups and downs. In the end, however, the exchange students agree that coming to America has been a life experience that has been worth it.

Elsa Colinas, Mexico

"I like it here in Whitman where I'm living with my host family. I like Whitman Hanson and I play soccer for the W-H soccer team. I miss my friends and my family back in Mexico the most. Other than Spanish, I can also speak English and French."

Natalia Tavares, Brazil

"I like my host family. I like school (Whitman Hanson), and I really like Whitman, where I'm living. What I like the most are the people here; everybody is so nice and everyone tries to help me. Sometimes, complete strangers come up and talk with me. I'm really happy for that."

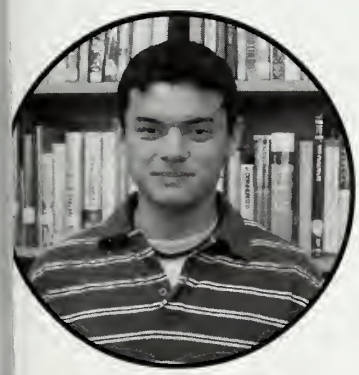
From left to right: Thomas Greksak, Donna Gardener, Jakob DeSaffel, and a host family member gather at a small get-together last summer.

Thomas Greksak, Slovakia

"I really like it here. I like the fact that the schools here have extra-curricular activities. I miss my home language, the mountains, and the girls. I do a lot of sports at home, and I like rock-climbing."

Aguri Koba , Japan

i, my name is Aguri. I came to Whitman-nson in August of this year. My first day re I couldn't speak much English, which nade it hard for me at school. I learned re English after spending time in school vith American students and having to a/ays speak English. While here I learned re than just speaking English. I learned aut American culture and the American cools, which are all different from where I i. I learned so many things, and had great experiences as an exchange student here."



Alberto Sandoval, Mexico

"I like the people here and where I'm living with my host family. I didn't expect as many rules here; I miss my family at home in Mexico. In my spare time, I like to play guitar and be with my host family. "

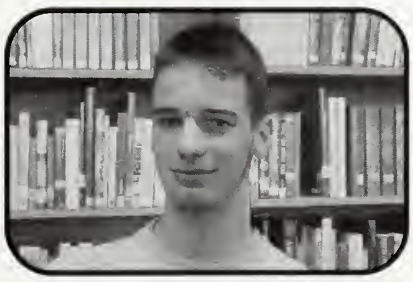
Julia Gutierrez and Elsa Colinas, both from Mexico, waiting for the MCAS exam.

Natalia Tavares and Thomas Greksak, share a friendly hug at a party.

"Tell us a little about yourself..."

Julia Gutierrez, Mexico

"I am fluent in English and Spanish. I was born in Texas; it was an amazing experience and I loved the culture. It surprises me that the schools here are so big. I miss my home and my family in Mexico the most. What I like most about being in America is meeting all new people."



Jakob DeSaffel, Belgium

"I like the girls here;" [laughter], "they are very pretty. I didn't know that the houses were made out of wood, and that there were so many burger places here. I miss my home in Belgium. I like to hang out with my girlfriend there, and hang out with my friends and play laser-tag."

Senioritis muddies important year

Suddenly everything goes hazy, you twitch, and jump up just before your head is about to slam your desk; and you don't even remember shutting your eyes. Struggling to stay awake in class when you'd much rather be napping; trying to get your homework done when you'd much rather be lazy and on the couch; getting up early for school when you'd much rather just roll out of bed and go. These are some of the common stresses that are classic symptoms of senioritis.

It is such a national concern that the federal government even created the National Commission on the High School Senior year. Among its 2001 findings is the fact that up to a third of freshman in college need some sort of remediation in writing or math. There are a variety of factors, such as the amount of hours a student works outside of school and the anticipation of ending this stage of life, that contribute to combination of boredom, stress and laziness which can plague seniors.

Senior Jennifer Turpin claims she is a victim of this syndrome. She said, "Grades cause me to worry and become stressed. I can be working hard for a while, but soon after my mind begins to wander. When my mind wanders I begin to get stressed and worried about how I am going to get all my work completed."

Mike Tompkinson also feels that he has some of the symptoms. "Every morning I get woken up about three times before I actually get out of bed; I get angry for not being able to sleep. Waking up early, going to school every weekday, receiving multiple assignments, and having to go to work makes each week even mor stressful than the last."

Andrew Forbes has officially been diagnosed with Senioritis.

Other symptoms include: sleeping in class, failure t complete homework assignments, refusal to wear any thing but pajamas, and repeated use of the phrase, ' don't care."

While some students may not exhibit signs until a late as the arrival of college acceptances, many struggl with motivation problems from early in senior year.

Seniors in Mr. Goetz's Senior English classes were asked to write about the different stresses that affect their performance during their senior years. Here's what some sai

Jessicalee Toy

"Well, grades are causing me the most stress. My job is just an aggravation; it takes away my time, and college applications are driving me crazy because I have no idea where I want to go or what I'm supposed to do. I need money for everything, like saving up for a car, the semi dance, etc. SATs are not that big of a stress for me, but they do add to everything else. In a way, I can't wait for the year to be over."

THE END IS IN SIGHT...WHAT'S NEXT? YOU'RE KIDDING, THIS COUNTS?

Senior Standpoint

shley Burke

s getting close to the end of my highschool eer and to the point where I don't want to anymore school work, but still manage to l off great grades!"

James Creed

"This year I haven't done anything, or at least it seems like I haven't done anything, and yet I'm still managing to pass all my classes."

Michael Friedman

"I get stressed when I get in trouble and receive extended office detentions for being late and things like that. I just get really upset and don't feel like staying in school. Extended office detentions are the worst thing in the world. Three hours after school. Then, if I forget that I have an extended detention and I miss it, I can't go to school the next day, and I can't make up my work. Then, I miss one more day. I am stressed out because my parents want me to graduate, but I'm lazy and don't feel like doing anything at all!"

Brittany Tonello

"It shouldn't be called senioritis. I've had it since I started high school, maybe I'm just lazy, but senior year has been the worst yet. I just sleep through all my classes or sit there in boredom waiting for the bell to ring."

Joe Hollis

"I have many choices to make in the very near future. Two things that relate are jobs, and money. I need to get a job to get money, but have been unsuccessful. My parents are helping me out just fine, but they have their moments of adding to my stress. I am definitely worried about my grades, but I hope to pass, and get out on my own. My life is going in a good direction, and I hope to keep it that way."

Freshman Year:

At the turn of the new century
Freshman year had finally come,
We worked hard on our legacy,
Whitman and Hanson united as one.

Homecoming was a huge success
Otises were all we ate.
At the lock-in we had no rest,
With our backpacks, we thought we were great.

Next came the rally, pretty in pink,
We were ready for passes and punts
We would be hazed, you might think,
But the sophomores, they received the brunt.

A botched election brought to power
A spewer of malaprops.
We liberals, we all were dour
Our candidates, they all were flops.

The seasons quickly passed by,
As the reality began to set in.
Freshman year, we all survived!
The summer was soon to begin.

Sophomore Year:

Out of pink, and into white
Both superbowls did excite.
The tyranny of "The Wave" was overcome
The Patriots and Panthers champions did become.

Our minds could not grasp the scope,
Of the event with which we had to cope.
'Twas the eleventh of September,
A date we'll always remember.

Of the mighty Chaskes are stories told
Of lessons strange and speech most bold.
Long shall we remember him,
For jingle bells and a face most grim.

Mission Mondays were the rule
As NEASC visited our school.
The MCAS tests for some closed doors,
Quoth Alperen, "The choice is yours."

April showers brought along tears
Our friend Erin left us after fifteen years.
It was so hard to say goodbye,
One more angel graced the sky.

In a year of great change little stayed the same,
Despite many hardships we overcame.
Upperclassmen, we soon would be,
Red's the color for year three.

Junior Year:

Year three, one year more
Prepared for the PSAT's
College fairs and papers galore,
Our Junior Year, it was not a breeze.

Our licenses, they were the story,
As them we did receive.
At powderpuff our victory
Made the Seniors grieve.

It was a dark Thanksgiving
When we finally lost the Game.
But our Dynasty's still living
In the Land of Framingham.

Four Latin teachers did it take
To get us through the year.
A vast invasion Bolshevik
On Halloween struck fear.

Dubya did invade Iraq
'Spite protest 'round the globe.
The whooping cough, it did attack,
That vicious, cruel microbe.

With limos, tuxes, and magic sticks
A successful Prom was had,
But Teddy Ballgame's cryogenics
Left us all quite sad.

As our Junior year neared its end,
By Alperen the goat was kissed,
The AP's our minds did bend,
And the SAT's could not be missed.

Senior Year:

The summer was ended, Seniors at last,
Looking forward to the future while remembering the past.
With Gould now in charge and Floeck as the dean,
All the construction made quite a scene.

The Red Sox were the talk of the town,
College applications made us all frown.
Tones would replace the sound of the bell,
When is the lockdown? Only time would tell.

Boys cross country won the ACL,
And the traditional Thanksgiving rally fell.
Homecoming week was far from a success,
The dance was cancelled; hope no one bought a dress.

Measured were we for caps and gowns;
On came SAT's - the verbs! the nouns!
Our last semi was quite a ball -
Glitter and lights filled the Town Hall.

Dressed up in red and black attire,
We attended our first school bonfire.
Once again powderpuff we did win,
But we lost on Thanksgiving again.

Spring rolled around, it was time for the Prom,
Cameras flashing from dad and mom.
Senior breakfast and banquet were a no fail,
Then came graduation, the end of our tale.

The future is ours, but still quite unclear.
We'll enter this new journey without any fear.
High School has ended, graduates at last,
Looking forward to the future while remembering the past.

Meaghan Miller: "My senior treasures are my crutches because I seem to be very accident prone and I am always getting hurt."

Seniors Win Powder Puff 6 - 0

Powder Puff Game Was A Success!

The night started off with something new, beginning with the bonfire and the rally. As the rally came to an end, both the junior and senior girls took their place on the field for the big game.

As the girls were warming up, the senior s thought it would be funny to go and run through the junior's circle, just to add a bit of comic relief. Although the juniors may have thought it wasn't funny, senior Allie Lawlor explained, " All of the senior girls wanted to give the junior girls a little 'pre-spanking' before they faced us on the field."

Junior Adrienne Cochrane, who was among the junior girls' circle added, "Not funny!" The juniors laughed it off in the end and the fun began.

Although the pregame was humorous, the juniors definitely didn't think it was too funny when they lost to the defending champion seniors, who won the game with a final score of six to nothing. In the end, the seniors won in their year to shine. The Powderpuff game turned out well and fun was had all around the field.

A group of junior girls stand in excitement and chat before their big game against the seniors.

Standing on the side lines, the senior girls watched and cheered as their other teammates took the field to gain control of the ball.

The senior captains Whitney Chapman and Courtney Ryan are handed the ball after winning the coin toss.

Senior Nicole Sidor warms up with one of the team coaches. Nicole was the girls quarterback, who had a great arm in the game.

Jessica Cole, Jennifer Oberle, and Katelyn McGrath scream and cheer as the junors steal the ball away from the seniors.

The class of 2004 listens in as their head coach, Mr. Lebel, speaks to them before they take the field to show the school what they're made of.

The senior girls rejoice after the fourth quarter is finally over; the Seniors have finished on top with a 6-0 victory.

These senior girls watch their boys of the varsity football team as they stand proudly in front of them.

Senior TJ McGonagle meets with his group of senior girls to go over their next big play on the field.

Can you say team-work? The class of 2005 joins together to warm up for the battle against the defending champions, the class of 2004.

Trying Something New: Rally After School

Some seniors think that the class of 2007 had it easy their freshman year. Up until this year, it has always been an unoffical tradition for the upperclassmen to "pick on" the underclassmen during the pep rally the day before our big football game against Abington.

This year, it was decided that things should be done a little differently. The school had the rally afterschool rather than during, with a bonfire, and the powder puff game following the activities. Although the freshman may be relieved that they didn't have to wear pink, some seniors are disappointed that things weren't the same as they had been.

Senior Caitlyn Barnes explains, "For the past three years we've always had the rally in school, we always sat with our class, and the freshman always wore pink. It just wasn't the same this year." That seems to be the reaction from most of the upperclassmen. "It was a disappointment that things had to change my junior year. I can only hope that it will change back so that everyone can attend," added Lynda Nguyen.

Although many students believe it wasn't in their best interest for the rally to be after school, there was a fair reason for planning it that way. The rally used to be shared to only the students and faculty, but now can be shared with anyone else from the two towns who wishes to attend. Trying something new like this was to allow the Whitman-Hanson students to come together as a school, not only as individual classes. Whitman Hanson pride was the goal.

So, this year may not have been as exciting as some had hoped, or maybe it was better than expected, but in the end, all turned out well.

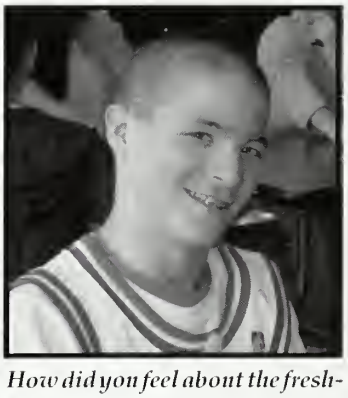
During festivities before the Powder Puff game, senior Caitlyn Cole reaches for a water balloon tossed by her teammate in hopes that she won't get splashed.

How did you feel about having the rally after school?

Freshman Shanna Leonard replied, "I think it should have been during school, it would have been funnier."

How did you feel about having the rally after school?

Freshman Shawn Creed commented, "I guess it was alright."



How did you feel about the freshman not wearing pink?

Sophomore Kevin O'Dell explained, "I think because we experienced it, the freshmen this year should have been able to experience it too."

How did you feel about the fres man not wearing pink?

Sophomore Pat Moran agre "It kind of stinks that th didn't have to wear the color. defeates the purpose of a rall

What would you like to see happen during your senior rally?

Junior Nathan Weber replies, "I would like to see the powder puff game outside, during school, against Abington."

What would you like to see happen during your senior rally?

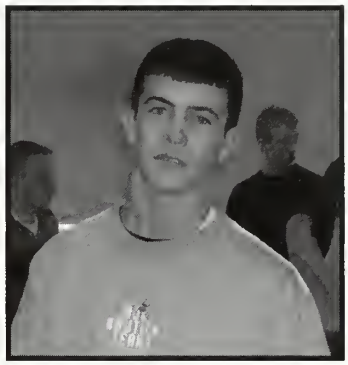
Junior Alicia Dennehy answers, "I would like to have the rally during school so that everyone can attend. Also for the freshman to wear pink."

How did you feel about not being able to pick on the freshmen this year?

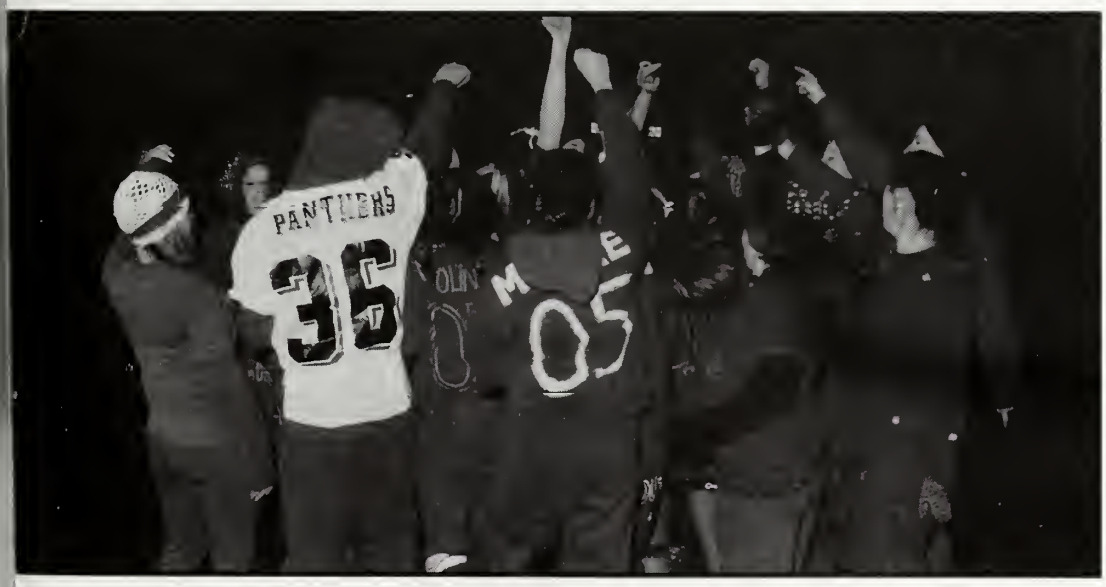
Senior Kim Tomkinson comments, "It's like taking candy from a baby. It was disappointing!"

How did you feel about not being able to pick on the freshmen this year?

Senior Randy Fader explains, "It was fun when we had to go through it, so I think they deserved to go through it too."



The bonfire was a great way to kick off the rally. Senior Jimmy Creed added, "Having a bonfire was definately a great way to keep warm that night!"



Before the rally, the junior class came together to show their spirit by joining in on a group huddle to pump up their spirits.

COME ON IN, THE WATER'S FINE

Sophomore Class Officers: Kerry Arouca, Kate Shaw, Stephen Palumbo, Erin Shanahan

Mark Doyle, Kate Shaw, Steve Palumbo, and Keri Oruka lead the sophomore class to a victory against the freshmen in a game of TUG-O-WAR at the Ralley.

In a sprint for the finish line, Steph Crisp competes at the girls Varsity meet hoping to finish first.

Ted Paray anxously waits to make his attempt at a goal.

Allison Rich keeps the crowd entertained on her saxaphone at the half time show during one of the first home games of the season.

Speeding to the finish line at the Obstacle Course, Kevin Dempsey catches everyones eyes in his sophomore pride outfit.

Just getting our feet wet

While James Kolozie would prefer doing tricks on his bike, here he is pictured "Getting Low" at the Rally to conclude March Madness week.

Freshman class officers: Sarah Burnett, Jackie Iannone, Cortney Monfils, Kelsee Reidy

Freshmen Erin Murphy and Kelsey Croghan have it all bacwards, as they both participate in this years backwards dress up day.

hough digging in proved difficult because of a wounded knee, Keri Gilbert led annah Sances, Sarah Burnett and the rest of pink-clad freshman as they tried to eat the sophomores at a game of tug-o-war.

So freshmen, what's your favorite.....

While he did not remember that his order placed him in the raffle, Ford's face shows the change when he realized he had won $50, his prize delivered by Mr. Goetz.

FRESHMAN FORD FIFTY DOLLARS RICHER

Beating odds of about 400 to 1, freshman Benjamin Ford was the winner of the $50 donated by Jostens to raffle off to all students who filled out order forms whether or not they wanted to order a yearbook. Ford had ordered one, and passed on the chance to use his winnings to pay for his book. Instead, he decided to let his mother pay for it.

Successful season ends in tournament storm

SOFTBALL

Once again the Whitman-Hanson Varsity Softball Team has won the title of ACL Champs. Even after the season ending injury of their starting pitcher Kristen delaCampa the team was able to rally together and win one of the two games against Quincy, who came in second place.

One of the players stepping up was Lisa delaCampa, whose high of 19 strikeouts came in their defeat of Quincy. That game, which also saw some stellar defense, qualified the Panthers for the State Tournment.

Casey McDonough, one of the teams strongest hitters, hit a homerun which began a rally that led the Panthers to an early season win in a game against Oliver Ames.

Jen Baxley seemed to have all of the luck in the next game against Nauset, when she hit a double in the 8th inning that scored the winning runs.

A few games later, Ashley Mahoney and Lisa delaCampa pitched a combined no-hitter against Randolph.

Things seem to be going well for this young team, but in a difficult tournament game against Nauset the weather did not help them out at all. The Panthers struggled to keep the lead when it started to rain. Even though the girls put up a great fight, they couldn't seem to come out vicorious. With a final score of 4-3, the Panthers had lost, which eliminated them from the tournament, ending their 2004 season.

Steph Huska (bottom right) throws the ball from first base to home plate to stop the run from scoring.

Jen Mooney(left) scoops up the ball in left field and makes the play at second base.

The relationship between pitcher and catcher that everyone wished they had.

Cheer - "Oh No..Oh Yea..Here we go..Panthers!!!"

Lisa delaCampa threw 19 strinkouts in the game against Quincy which was the win that qualified the panters for the State Tournament.

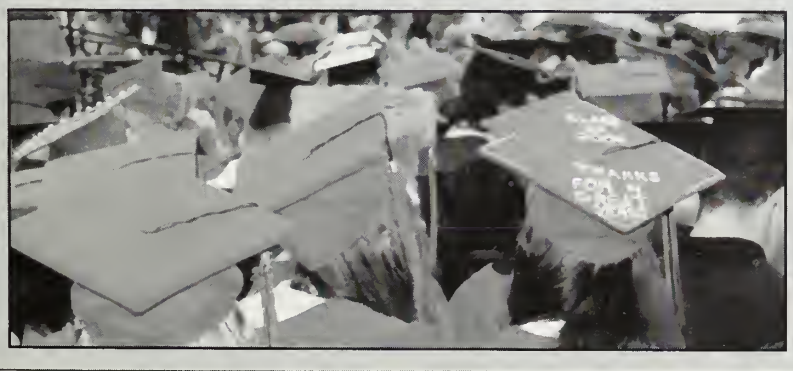
THE WAITING IS THE HARDEST PART – Yet another sign of the changing times is the prevalence of cell phones as some graduates passed the time in the gym by making plans or speaking with friends or family.

CREATIVELY CAPPING FOUR YEARS – Some graduates spent a great deal of time decorating their mortarboards with photographs and other momentos to mark the day.



GRADUATION GOOD TO THE LAST DROP

Under a steady drizzle and with frequent tassel tossing gusts of winds, the ceremony was the graduates last collective splash.

Graduation – Sunday, June 6, 2004
Dennis M. O'Brien Athletic Field

Clockwisefrom top right: Judy Cady was smiling with the rest of her class as Mike Cameron followed her up center aisle to the seats. Rikki Eanes was among the graduates who waved to friends and family along their procession. Class President Dan Hopkins welcomed all in attendance with the first comments to mark the occasion. Two graduates who have studied American Sign Language shows their ability during the Pledge of Allegiance.

Class Ode

Four years ago we planted our seed,
Naïve and unsure of what the future would hold.
Breaking through the rough earth was our first deed,
Eager and ready to show strength in what would unfold.

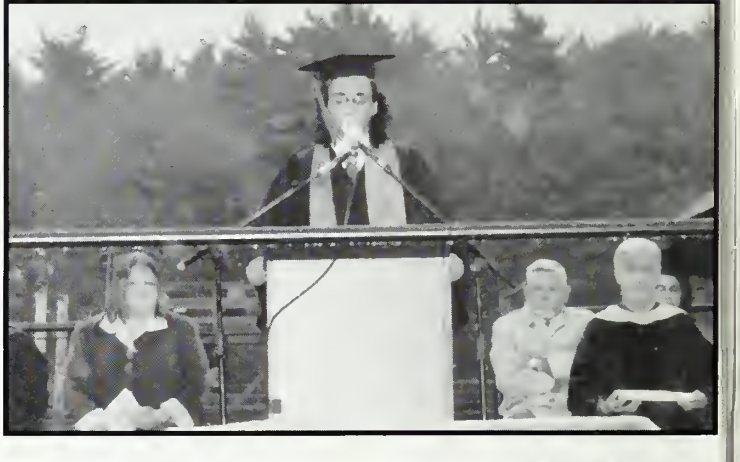
As our roots would cross paths, a foundation was laid.
The strength of unity would soon become clear.
Though we combined, our individualism would not fade,
Bonded together as one with the passing of each year.

The sky would turn dark, but our branches still grew;
With our stable bond the storm could not compete.
We awaited the sunlight, for the sky to turn blue
Proceeding onward, unaccepting of defeat.

The time has come for us to branch out...
The fear of the unknown will stay in our minds.
As we come face to face with doubt,
The lessons we've learned will not be left behind.

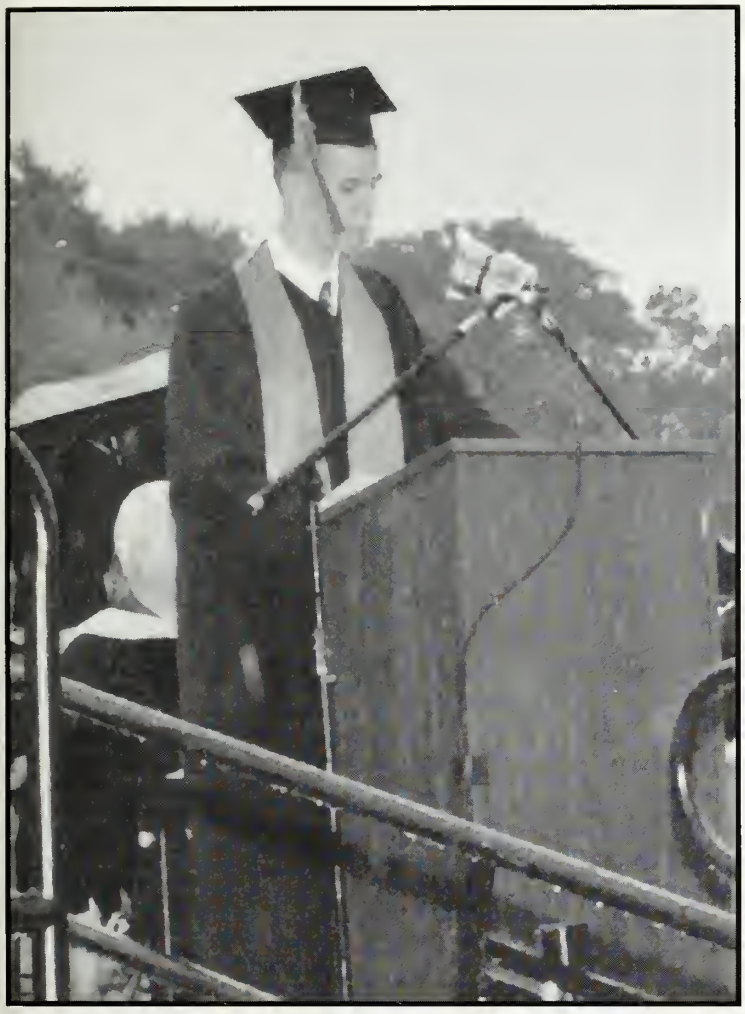
Saying good-bye, time to start anew
Never knowing how much we'd acquire after we came.
In the end, though we're breaking through,
Our roots shall forever remain.

Written by:
Nicole Sidor, Katie Sweeney, & Ashley Wall



Alayna Madden, Ryan Landis and Sean Leary stroll to their seats.

Members of the Class of 1954 stand to be honored.



Salutatorian Mark Pare gave his speech, Reflections, contemplations, and gold, before the band played their final song with senior members. The concert chorus and Pop Rock Ensemble performed the theme from the television sitcom, Friends, I'll Be There For You, by the Rembrandts.

COLOPHON

The student yearbook staff, and the adviser, Mr. Gregory Goetz, produced the 2003-2004 yearbook of the Whitman-Hanson Regional High School. This year's book was sold for fifty to sixty dollars, depending on whether it was bought early or late. There were 450 copies made of this year's book. Each book consisted of 240 pages; sixteen full color pages, sixteen spot colored pages, and 208 black and white pages. Adobe PageMaker 7.0 and Adobe Photoshop 6.0.1 were used on a Power Macintosh G3, Power Macintosh 7100/66av, and a Power Macintosh 8500/180, two Emacs, and a Flat panel iMac. Students of the yearbook staff, using a Sony Mavica FD-92 camera, a Nikon Coolpix 4300, and other cameras belonging to students, took most of the candid pictures in the book. Some images were scanned using an HP Scanjet 4570c. Undergraduate portraits and several sports and activities photos were provided by McGrath Studios. Senior portraits were also provided by McGrath Studios, Nicholas Studios, Susan White, and Green Photography. Aerial photography of schools courtesy of Sidney Russell. This yearbook may not be reproduced by anyone without the consent of the 2003-2004 editors and adviser.
